

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

CORPORATION DIVISION.

The total number of certificates of incorporation issued under general laws to new corporations was 1,334, — an increase of 537, as compared with 1903, — classified as follows : —

Trading corporations (under chapter 437, Acts of 1903),	1,067
Religious, charitable, social, educational, musical, athletic, etc., corporations (under Revised Laws, chapter 125, section 6),	194
Fraternal beneficiary corporations (under Revised Laws, chapter 119),	25
Churches (under Revised Laws, chapter 36, section 51),	18
Public service corporations (under Revised Laws, chapter 110, section 21),	11
Trust companies (under chapter 374, Acts of 1904),	5
Agricultural and horticultural corporations (under Revised Laws, chapter 124, section 19),	5
Street railway corporations (under Revised Laws, chapter 112),	4
Assessment insurance companies (under Revised Laws, chapter 120),	4
Roman Catholic Bishop of Fall River (under chapter 390, Acts of 1904),	1

As given above, 1,067 trading companies were incorporated under the business corporation law of 1903, which is an increase of 809 companies, or 314 per cent, compared with 1902, the last full calendar year of the operation of the old law for business corporations, when 258 were incorporated.

The number of miscellaneous certificates filed and recorded was 4,468, — an increase of 608. Of these, 2,743 were certificates of condition of Massachusetts corporations (under section 51, chapter 110 of the Revised Laws and section 45, chapter 437, Acts of 1903); 11 were certificates of organization of gas and electric light corporations (under chapter 110 of the Revised Laws); 1,067 were articles of organization of trading corporations (under chapter 437, Acts of 1903); 194 were certificates of religious, charitable and other organizations (under chapter 125 of the Revised Laws); 4 were certificates of payment of capital in public service corporations (under chapter 110 of the Revised Laws); 77 were certificates of issue of capital stock of trading corporations (under chapter 437, Acts of 1903); and the remainder were distributed among 27 different classes.

The number of miscellaneous certificates filed and not recorded was 1,982, — an increase of 4; of which 1,854 were certificates of condition of foreign corporations (under chapter 126 of the Revised Laws and section 66 of chapter 437, Acts of 1903), and the remainder were divided among 12 other classes.

There were issued 15 certificates of change of name of corporations, — a decrease of 5.

Returns were received of the dissolution of 49 corporations by the supreme judicial court, — a decrease of 19.

Under the act relating to the incorporation of clubs, 1 certificate of incorporation which had been issued to a club was declared void and of no further effect, upon evidence that the premises of the club were used for illegal purposes; and charters were refused or withdrawn in 10 cases.

Details of all these statistics appear in the Abstract of Certificates of Corporations, published by this office (Public Document, No. 10).

The total number of certificates of every classification filed and recorded in this division in 1903 was 7,166, and the total in 1904 was 9,779, — an increase of 2,613 certificates, or 36 per cent, during the year 1904.

Limited partnership certificates to the number of 40 were filed and recorded, — an increase, as compared with 1903, of 11.

LABELS, TRADE-MARKS, ETC.

By chapter 72, section 7, Revised Laws, which relates to the adoption and registration of labels, trade-marks, stamps and forms of advertisement, the duty is placed upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth of receiving, filing and recording such labels, etc., and of issuing and recording certificates of record. Under this law, labels, trade-marks, stamps and forms of advertisement were received and certificates of record issued and recorded in 517 cases, — an increase of 57.

INSIGNIA OF SOCIETIES AND LABOR UNIONS.

Chapter 335, Acts of 1904, provides for the registration in this office of the insignia, ribbons, badges, rosettes, buttons and emblems of societies, associations and labor unions. The registrations received have been included with the number of labels above given under section 7, chapter 72, Revised Laws.

MARKS AND DEVICES ON CANS, ETC.

By chapter 72, section 15, Revised Laws, which provides for the protection of owners of cans, bottles, boxes, siphons and fountains used in the sale of soda water, mineral and aerated waters, ale, beer, ginger ale or similar beverages, it is made the duty of the Secretary of the Commonwealth to receive and file descriptions of marks, devices, etc.; and under this law 20 such descriptions were received and filed, — a decrease of 12. Under section 19 of said chapter 72, Revised Laws, protecting dealers and consumers against the unlawful use and destruction of milk cans, jugs, bottles or jars, 9 descriptions of marks, devices, etc., were received and filed, — a decrease of 10, as compared with 1903.

VITAL STATISTICS.

The returns of births and marriages from the various cities and towns for the year 1903 which were received in 1904 cover 73,584 births and 26,940 marriages, — an increase, as compared with the returns of 1902, of 1,365 births and 1,255 marriages.

By an act of 1903 (chapter 305), returns of deaths are now required to be made to this office monthly instead of annually, with the purpose of obtaining, tabulating and publishing the mortality statistics with the least possible delay, thus giving them the greatest possible value.

During the year 1904 there were received returns of 49,054 deaths, — an increase of 1,563, as compared with the returns of 1903.

The total number of returns of births, marriages and deaths was 149,578.

The medical examiners' returns for 1903 cover 3,010 cases, — an increase of 215, as compared with the returns for 1902.

The returns by the clerks of the courts of the decrees of divorce for 1903 number 2,233, — being an increase of 370, as compared with the returns for 1902.

All of these figures are compiled and presented fully in the sixty-second registration report (Public Document, No. 1).

ARCHIVES.

Forty-nine volumes of the manuscript collection of the archives have been remounted and rebound during the year, together with 105 volumes of miscellaneous records, making a total of 154 volumes. This work is still in progress, and will be continued until every volume in this entire, priceless collection is in the best possible condition.

Under the provisions of chapter 470 of the Acts of 1902, 15 volumes of manuscript copies of births, marriages and deaths prior to 1850, with the printed volumes corresponding thereto, were received and deposited in the registration room. The towns reported are as follows: Arlington, Bellingham, Chilmark, Great Barrington, Gill, Holden, Manchester, Marblehead, Middleton, New Braintree, Petersham, Shrewsbury, Upton, Waltham and Washington.

Of the publication entitled "Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors of the Revolutionary War," volume XII., covering all names between PEA and RAZ, was printed during the year. The copy for volume XIII., which will include all names between REA and SDU, is in the hands of the printer, and will be published during the present year. All the copy for volume XIV., which is to include all names between SEA and STA, is complete, and the copy for volume XV. is well under way. It is probable that not only volume XIII., but volume XIV., will be issued during the current year.

DOCUMENT DIVISION.

There were printed under the direction of this office, during the year, in the Public Document series (numbering 71 different reports), 204,350 volumes, — an increase of 2,750 volumes. Of this number, 137,120 were handled and distributed in the document division, being supplied to members of the General Court, to cities and towns, public officers, libraries, and to the general public.

In addition to the Public Document series, there were printed and distributed 25,000 copies of the pamphlet edition of the laws; 12,000 copies of the Blue Book; 13,500 copies of the Manual for the General Court; 1,359 copies of the term reports; 1,000 copies each of the Senate and House Journals; and there were also received and distributed 1,000 copies of volume XII., Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors of the Revolutionary War; 500 copies each of the Vital Records of the towns of Arlington, Bellingham, Chilmark, Gill, Great Barrington, Holden, Manchester, Marblehead, Middleton, New Braintree, Petersham, Shrewsbury, Upton, Waltham and Washington; 500 copies of the John C. Best murder trial; and 5,000 copies of the Supplement to Laws Relating to Elections, — making a grand total of 204,979 volumes which have passed through the document division during the year, — an increase of 1,270 volumes over 1903.

Two hundred and sixty-two copies of the Bradford History were sold during the year.

I recommend a decrease in the edition of the report of the State Board of Health from 5,000 to 4,500; and that the Board may issue 500 of the 4,500 copies in parts, for its own use. This I do at the request of the chairman of the Board.

Provision should be made for the printing, binding and distribution of the reports of the State census to be taken during the current year. As the result of a consultation with the chief of the Bureau of Statistics of Labor, under whose direction the census is to be taken, I recommend that, of the three volumes provided for in section 19 of the act for taking the census (chapter 423, Acts of 1904), there shall be printed from stereotype plates 5,000 copies of volume I., 2,500 copies each of volumes II. and III.; each volume to be of the size of what is known as the Blue Book, but in the general style of the annual reports of the Bureau of Statistics of Labor. It is further recommended that volume I. shall not contain more than 800 pages, and volumes II. and III. not more than 600 pages each. It will be observed that this is a reduction from 45,500 copies of the reports of the State census of 1895 to 10,000 copies.

STATE PRINTING.

The cost of printing Public Documents in 1904, including the Manual, Blue Book, Journals, etc., was $40,245.29. The most expensive single report in the Public Document series was that of the Board of Agriculture, $5,667.80, — an increase of about $125 over the amount for 1903. The Report of the Railroad Commissioners cost $4,654.77; the Bank Commissioners, $5,181.02; and the Board of Health, $3,724.43. The Blue Book cost $6,861.03; the Manual, $4,334.93; the Senate

Journal, $1,397.13 ; the House Journal, $1,698.98. The Senate printing bill was $8,094.03, and the House printing $18,006.34, — a decrease of $1,018.65 in the Senate printing bill, and a decrease of $1,888.83 in the House printing bill. The bill for printing the official ballots was $10,865.13, — an increase of $2,783.20, on account of its being a presidential year.

CHANGES OF NAMES.

The returns of 446 names changed in 1903, as decreed by the several probate courts, were received and filed, in compliance with the requirements of the Revised Laws, chapter 154, section 14, and published in the Blue Book.

PEDLERS' LICENSES.

There were issued to hawkers and pedlers, under the provisions of chapter 65, Revised Laws, 1,569 licenses, — a decrease of 93 from 1903. Of this number, 298 were for the State, 462 for counties, 594 for cities and towns, and 215 for cities and towns in which the applicant resided and paid taxes on a stock in trade.

Of free licenses issued, 438 were to soldiers and sailors who served in the army or navy during the war of the rebellion, — a decrease of 3, as compared with the previous year ; 41 to soldiers and sailors who served in the war against Spain, — a decrease of 15 ; and 59 to persons seventy years of age or upwards.

Two itinerant vendors' State licenses were issued during the year. The number of transfers of licenses was 135.

COAL AND COKE LICENSES.

The number of licenses for the sale of coal and coke issued during the year, as provided in chapter 484, Acts of 1903, was 267 in cities, and in towns 89, — a total of 356 ; and the list of licensees covers all of the 353 cities and towns of the Commonwealth with the exception of 61 towns. Up to the present time only 3 cities, Fall River, Chicopee and Springfield, and 1 town, Huntington, have established fees, conditions and terms, as provided in the law.

I renew my recommendation of last year, that the law should be amended so as to require cities and towns to prescribe fees, conditions and terms under which licenses are to be granted, and to communicate them to the Secretary of the Commonwealth; or that the Secretary himself should have power to fix such fees, conditions and terms. The law should also state to whom the fees should be paid. In my judgment, also, the Secretary of the Commonwealth should be relieved from the judicial functions conferred upon him by section 3 of the act, leaving the matter of hearings, etc., to some court. No complaints have been received under this section, however.

RETURNS UNDER THE "LOBBY ACT."

Under what is known as the "lobby act" (Revised Laws, chapter 11, sections 285 to 306, inclusive), 328 entries were made upon the docket of legislative counsel and agents, — a decrease of 33, as compared with 1903. Returns were received at this office covering 308 of these entries. Of those received, it became the duty of the Secretary to transmit 22 to the Attorney-General for his information, 14 of them appearing to be irregular or defective, and the 8 others being received after the expiration of the time limit. The 20 cases of delinquency were reported to the Attorney-General, as required by law.

ELECTIONS.

All statements and statistics referring to elections appear, as required by law, in Public Document, No. 43 (Assessed Polls, Registered Voters, etc.), together with recommendations in relation thereto. A report of the number of returns under the corrupt-practices act, so called, will be found in the same document.

PROCLAMATIONS.

The usual Thanksgiving and Arbor Day proclamations were printed and distributed under the direction of this office. Of the Thanksgiving proclamation, about 2,500 were sent by mail to churches and about 100 to institutions; and of the Arbor Day proclamation, 1,050 were distributed by mail.

PARDONS, REQUISITIONS, ETC.

The number of pardons made out and issued in 1904 was 46; requisitions upon other States, 41; warrants issued upon requisitions from other States, 18; transfers from prisons, etc., to hospitals, 31; permit for release from State Prison on parole, 5; recommitment for violating condition of pardon, 1.

NATURALIZATION RETURNS.

Under provisions of the Revised Laws, chapter 166, section 17, returns were received of the naturalization of 5,430 persons before the various courts of the Commonwealth during the year 1903, — a decrease of 2,317, as compared with the returns for 1902. These returns were indexed and bound in convenient form for reference, as required by law.

MISCELLANEOUS.

As required by law, the return of the Surveyor-General of Lumber of the various kinds and quantities of lumber surveyed and the amount of fees received by him and his deputies in the year 1903 was received and filed Jan. 22, 1904.

The four special reports from this office which form a part of the Public Document series, namely, Returns of Births, Marriages and Deaths (Public Document, No. 1), Abstract of Certificates of Corporations (Public Document, No. 10), Aggregates of Polls, Property, Taxes, etc. (Public Document, No. 19), and Returns of Assessed Polls, Registered Voters, and Persons who Voted, etc. (Public Document, No. 43), have been made, as required by law.

Respectfully,

WM. M. OLIN,

Secretary of the Commonwealth.

The total taxable property of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, as per last published statements by the Secretary of the Commonwealth and the Tax Commissioner, was as follows:—

Amesbury,	Foxborough,	Richmond,
Ashland,	Georgetown,	Rockland,
Athol,	Gloucester,	Salem,
Avon,	Holliston,	Sharon,
Beverly,	Hull,	Shelburne,
Boxford,	Hyde Park,	Shrewsbury,
Brockton,	Lowell,	Somerville,

Dracut,	New Bedford,	Wellesley,
East Bridgewater,	Newton,	Wenham,
Easton,	North Reading,	West Brookfield,
Essex,	Northampton,	Westford,
Everett,	Orange,	Westminster,
Fall River,	Peabody,	Winthrop,
Fitchburg,	Quincy,	Worcester.

Many additional inspections have been made of the work performed by the local sealers, and, when necessary, instruction has been given.

No new towns were incorporated by the Legislature of 1904, therefore no expenditure was required from the annual appropriation for the "Purchase of new standards."

A standard of measure fifty feet in length, which is almost completed, will soon be added to the equipment of this office, and will be used for the purpose of comparing surveyors' tapes and other linear measures for which previously no provision has been made.

The national authorities, realizing the great necessity of uniformity of legislation relating to weights and measures, have requested the several States to send representatives to a meeting to be held in Washington, D. C., during the present month, for the purpose of discussing this question. I was appointed on Nov. 19, 1904, by His Excellency John L. Bates, Governor, to represent the State at this conference.

I would recommend the passage of the following legislation:—

1. Chapter 403, Acts of 1903, entitled "An Act relative to cranberry barrels and crates," provides for the enforcement of the same by the Deputy Sealers of Weights and Measures of the various cities and towns. The word "Deputy" appears to have been used through error, and I would suggest that it be stricken out, thus making the statute uniform with other similar legislation.

GENERAL FINANCES.

The Sinking Funds as at present computed are calculated at such a rate of interest that, with proper care in the investment of their funds, under any reasonable forecast of our financial future they cannot fail to be equal to the full amount of the debts they are to pay, before the same are due.

The present condition of the Sinking Funds is such that appropriations for their benefit will be necessary in six cases, viz. :—

Massachusetts War Loan Sinking Fund,	$56,905 58
Medfield Insane Asylum Loan Sinking Fund,	64,662 68
Metropolitan Parks Loan, Series Two, Sinking Fund,	33,258 67
Prisons and Hospitals Loan Sinking Fund,	6,854 24
State House Loan Sinking Fund,	395,668 72
State Highway Loan Sinking Fund,	170,300 40

$727,650 29

The Sinking Fund requirements for 1905, as tabulated above, and which amount to seven hundred twenty-seven thousand six hundred fifty and $\frac{29}{100}$ dollars (\$727,650.29),

Such action would harmonize with previous policy and legislation, as already the "Prisons and Hospitals Loan" covers issues for the benefit of —

Danvers Insane Hospital,	$198,600 00
Massachusetts School for the Feeble-minded,	215,000 00
Massachusetts Reformatory,	22,700 00
Northampton Insane Hospital,	159,000 00
Reformatory Prison for Women,	9,000 00
State Colony for the Insane,	389,200 00
State Farm,	138,000 00
State Hospital,	130,500 00
Taunton Insane Hospital,	237,100 00
Westborough Insane Hospital,	300,900 00
Worcester Insane Asylum,	277,500 00
Worcester Insane Hospital,	108,000 00
	$2,175,500 00

I respectfully recommend legislation that shall modify chapter 15 of the Revised Laws, by adding step-children to the class of exempts named therein.

I suggest, in this connection, that —

(1) The intention of the collateral inheritance tax statute appears to be to exempt the near relatives of a decedent, with the addition of those who might constitute his immediate family; and, although step-children are not now exempted, they are generally of the immediate family, and in the majority of cases are at the outset minors and actual dependents.

(2) As step-children may not inherit from their foster parent, it would seem that they might well be exempt on the comparatively small amounts bequeathed to them as legacies.

(3) In a number of instances the attention of this department has been drawn to cases where substantial injustice appears to have resulted; for instance, in the case of a widower, with children, who remarries, and, dying, bequeaths his property to his second wife, who in turn, at her death, bequeaths it to the children of the decedent from whose estate it originally flowed, and who are thus required to pay the 5 per cent. tax imposed.

During my own administration of this portfolio, the very growth and increase referred to have led me to change the system of book-keeping and accounting to a simpler, clearer and more accurate method in details, that has not only proved labor-saving, but has eliminated altogether the "padding" of totals, characteristic of the old method.

For this reason alone I omit in this, my last report, any such résumé, as being without any value for comparison.

But I am persuaded that no one of my predecessors has ever had occasion equal to mine to acknowledge, with gratitude, the ability, the zeal and loyalty to their chief of each and all of the attachés of this department.

These characteristics are to be found in every one of my subordinates, — each in his own individuality; and it is to this fact that I owe a most happy experience in administering the domestic affairs of this department, and to which large credit is to be given in the success attending the changes before referred to.

Acquaintance has ripened into respect and regard, and I commend them all to the entire confidence of my successor.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWARD S. BRADFORD,

Treasurer and Receiver-General.

It will be noted that the estimate of miscellaneous revenue is largely exceeded, the cause being shown in the items in the statement following the word "miscellaneous." These receipts cannot be looked for in the ordinary course of events, being due to special causes. The Railroad Commissioners' and Gas and Electric Light Commissioners' tax received reimburses the revenue for expenses incurred previous to this year, and by recent legislation will not complicate the revenue in the future, being dealt with in the funds.

ACTUAL REVENUE AND EXPENSES FOR 1904.

Section 24 of chapter 6 of the Revised Laws requires that the Auditor's report shall state whether or not the ordinary expenses of the year have exceeded the income, and show the amount of the balance. In compliance with this provision of law I have to say that—

The actual running expenses of the State government for 1904
were		$8,619,603 33
The income or revenue applicable thereto was	$6,021,281 29

The tables which follow show in summary form, somewhat extended, the revenue and expenses. Table 1 shows the revenue. Table 2 shows the actual expenses, whether paid or unpaid at the close of the year. For purposes of comparison figures for the past five years are given.

It would appear that, if no appropriations are made by the present Legislature in excess of those estimated for, which include only such as are called for by existing law, a State tax of $3,700,000 must be levied. The last Legislature, though it made a strenuous effort to curtail expenses, appropriated some $300,000 in excess of estimates. The necessity for this large increase in the State tax is explained as follows: —

The estimates for 1904 (and I use round numbers entirely) were $9,693,000, which amount included sinking fund requirements of $397,000, for which no appropriation was made, for the reason that it was expected that the civil war interest claim against the United States would be paid and be in part applied to this purpose. Deducting this amount of $397,000 from the estimates leaves, as the estimated expenses of 1904, $9,296,000, while this year's estimates for the same purposes, but including sinking fund requirements, are $10,435,000, — an excess for 1905 of $1,139,000. This excess is accounted for mainly by the following items: —

Sinking fund requirements,	$728,000 00
Decennial census,	280,000 00
Excess of unexpended appropriations over 1904,	100,000 00
	$1,088,000 00

Should the civil war interest claim be collected, the tax can be reduced by $728,000; but otherwise must apparently be in the vicinity of $4,000,000, unless new sources of revenue are discovered.

LEGISLATION SUGGESTED.

Financial Year.

His Excellency the Governor has renewed a recommendation of his predecessor, that the financial year of the Commonwealth be changed so as to end September 30. While much can be said both for or against the proposed change, I believe all will agree that the financial year of the State and of its various institutions should be the same, and I respectfully recommend legislation to that end.

Additional Clerk.

An experience of four years at the head of this department has convinced me that a change of book-keeping methods should be made, to do away with periodical comparisons of its books with those of the treasury department, and to bring the same into daily accord therewith, thus providing for an auditing of treasury transactions each day. Acting upon this conviction, I, at the beginning of the year, commenced the new system; and, as the change has required the employment of an additional clerk, I respectfully suggest that section 14 of chapter 6 be so amended as to authorize the auditor to employ an additional clerk, at a salary of $1,500.

IN CONCLUSION.

I have made a careful examination of the books, accounts and vouchers of the Treasurer and Receiver-General, and have found same to be correct in every particular.

In this connection I desire to express my regret that a constitutional limitation has terminated the service of the Hon. Edward S. Bradford, who has for the past five years rendered conspicuously efficient service to the Commonwealth as its Treasurer and Receiver-General.

Respectfully submitted,

HENRY E. TURNER,
Auditor.

THE COURTS.

The pressure of business upon the several courts of the Commonwealth is constantly increasing, and some further steps in the direction of relief are much to be desired. The law now provides (Revised Laws, chapter 158, section 10) that upon attaining the age of seventy a justice of either the Supreme Judicial Court or the Superior Court may resign, thereafter receiving during the remainder of his life an amount equal to three-fourths of the salary received by him at the time of his resignation. A similar provision is applicable to justices of such courts whose retirement is caused by disability.

I suggest for your consideration whether it may not be advisable to so amend existing statutes as to make available the services of a justice so retired, with his consent and upon request of the chief justice of the court from which he has retired, for specific causes and for such periods as his health and inclination may permit.

By Revised Laws, chapter 156, section 5, the Supreme Judicial Court is given original and concurrent jurisdiction with the Superior Court of actions of contract and replevin in which the damages demanded or the property claimed exceed in actions brought in the county of Suffolk $4,000, and in actions brought in other counties $1,000.

The tendency of recent legislation has been in the direction of making the Supreme Judicial Court a tribunal of appellate jurisdiction, and in accordance with this policy I recommend that such court be relieved of the burden of the trial of cases of contract and replevin by the repeal of the section above referred to. The number of cases brought under this section has become a serious inconvenience to the court, and there appears to be no good reason why this section should be longer retained.

IMPRISONMENT IN BASTARDY CASES.

Under Revised Laws, chapter 82, regulating the prosecution of bastardy complaints, the defendant, after examination in the inferior court and in default of bail, may be committed to prison to await further proceedings in the Superior Court. The complainant, however, is under no duty to continue the prosecution of her complaint in that court, and the defendant, if without competent legal advice and without means, is subjected to the hardship of an indefinite imprisonment, there being no officer now authorized to take steps for his relief or to call the attention of the court to his unfortunate condition so that he may be discharged.

It has been called to my attention that under these circumstances cases of genuine hardship have arisen, and I recommend that legislation be enacted making it the duty of district attorneys, probation officers or other proper authorities, upon notification from jailers or heads of penal institutions that the confinement of a defendant in bastardy proceedings has been unreasonably prolonged, to report the fact of such confinement to the Superior Court, which, after suitable investigation, may order the discharge of the person so confined.

GRADE CROSSINGS.

Under the law as it now stands no party to grade crossing proceedings is responsible for the payment of compensation of commissioners in the first instance. The expenses incurred by commissioners are audited and paid in the same manner as are the expenses of the parties, but the statute is silent as to their compensation. The result is that in many cases payment of their compensation is delayed much longer than it ought to be. Commissioners deserve to have their compensation paid within a reasonable time after they have performed their duties. I therefore recommend that legislation be enacted requiring the petitioner in such proceedings to pay all the bills of the commissioners for compensation and expenses, after they have been approved by all the parties thereto, or, in case they are not so approved, then allowed by a justice of the Superior Court; the petitioner to have the amounts so paid allowed as of right by the Auditor and paid by the parties in the same manner as the other expenses of abolishing grade crossings are paid.

I further recommend that grade crossing commissioners be authorized to take for sloping an easement or qualified interest in land adjoining land taken by them for highway or railroad purposes. As the law now stands whatever land is condemned by a commission is condemned for all the purposes of a railroad location or of a street location, as the case may be, even though a considerable portion of it may be used only for slopes. It is desirable, both from the point of view of the person whose land is taken and that of the parties to the grade crossing proceedings, that commissioners have authority to take land adjoining land taken for a street or railroad location for sloping purposes only. The owner would then have the right to use his land up to the side line of the street or railroad location, provided he did not undermine the foundations thereof; and the parties to the proceedings would not be required to pay for land taken for slopes as though it were taken for all the purposes of a street or railroad location.

COLLATERAL LEGACY AND SUCCESSION TAX.

Section 16 of chapter 15 of the Revised Laws provides that upon application of the Treasurer and Receiver-General, or of any party interested in the succession, the probate court shall appoint three disinterested persons, who, being first sworn, shall appraise the property in question for the purposes of the tax at its true market value and make return thereof to the court, which, after acceptance thereby, shall be final. The section further provides that "the fees of said appraisers, as determined by the judge of said court, shall be paid by the treasurer and receiver-general."

Under this section numerous petitions for reappraisal have been brought by parties interested, in many cases for the purpose of accomplishing very slight changes in the value of the property to be appraised, with the result that it often happens that the fees of the appraisers exceed the amount of the tax upon the alleged over-valuation. In most of such cases it seems at least probable that were it not for the fact that the entire expense of the proceeding falls upon the Commonwealth, no reappraisal would be sought, and in order that such petitions may be confined to meritorious instances where there is some real and substantial hardship by reason of an excessive valuation of the property, I suggest that in petitions brought under this section the fees of the appraisers be made chargeable to the party seeking the reappraisal.

I also suggest that as the reappraisal is ordinarily of a formal character and involves no considerable labor, the expenses be still further reduced by the enactment of a statute authorizing the probate court, in its discretion, to appoint a single appraiser instead of the three appraisers now required by law.

THE LAND COURT.

By the terms of statute 1904, chapter 448, the jurisdiction of the Court of Land Registration was enlarged and its name changed to the "Land Court." This tribunal now has jurisdiction over writs of entry, petitions to require actions to try title to real estate, petitions to determine the validity of encumbrances and petitions to discharge mortgages, and this jurisdiction is made original and exclusive.

Doubt has arisen as to the construction of the statute of 1904 with relation to the jurisdiction of cases pending in the Superior Court at the time of its enactment. I therefore recommend such amendatory legislation as shall distinctly provide that jurisdiction as to all cases pending when the new act became operative shall be retained by the courts in which they were so pending.

OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

The increasing volume of business transacted by the office of the Attorney-General and the increased amount of expenses occasioned thereby have necessitated increased expenditures from time to time, and the provision of Revised Laws, chapter 6, section 35, limiting the amount which officers expending money in behalf of the Commonwealth may have advanced from the treasury to the sum of $150 at any one time, has in some instances caused serious inconvenience in the administration of the department. There are already many exceptions to the restriction imposed by the section above quoted, and I recommend that it be further amended to permit the Attorney-General to have advanced to him the sum of $500 at any one time in place of the amount now prescribed by law.

On the first day of September, 1904, Mr. Ralph A. Stewart, after more than three years of faithful and efficient service as Assistant Attorney-General, resigned that position to enter upon private practice. His performance of the duties devolving upon him was always characterized by conspicuous ability, and his constant and conscientious devotion to the welfare of the Commonwealth merits the highest commendation. No appointment has as yet been made to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mr. Stewart.

Annexed to this report are the principal opinions prepared during the current year.

Respectfully submitted,

HERBERT PARKER,

Attorney-General.

OPINIONS.

Hours of Labor — Employees of the Commonwealth — “Office Work.”

R. L., c. 106, § 19, providing that “nine hours shall constitute a day’s work for all laborers, workmen and mechanics who are employed by or in behalf of the commonwealth,” does not include employees whose duties are of such a character as to bring them within the term “office work,” and the hours of labor for employees so engaged may be determined by the period of service required for the proper performance of the work of the department in which they are employed.

JAN. 27, 1904.

HON. HENRY S. PRITCHETT, Chairman, Charles River Basin Commission.

DEAR SIR: — Your inquiry is directed to the question whether or not there exists any statutory regulation which fixes the hours of labor of employees of your commission “engaged in office work.” St. 1903, c. 229, amending R. L., c. 18, § 13, provides that: —

The offices of all the departments of the state government shall be open to the public for the transaction of business daily, except on Sundays and legal holidays, from nine o’clock in the forenoon until five o’clock in the afternoon, except on Saturdays, when they may be closed at twelve o’clock, noon. The treasurer and receiver general shall not be required to keep his office open for the receipt and payment of money later than two o’clock in the afternoon.

The word “departments” as above used has no technical signification and applies as well to any distinct division of the executive branch of the government as to the departments of the Secretary, Treasurer and Receiver-General, and other administrative offices of the Commonwealth. See R. L., c. 18; P. S., c. 21. There is no apparent reason, therefore, why the section above quoted should not be applicable to the Charles River Basin Commission. But the requirement that offices of the several departments of the Commonwealth shall be open for business during the hours specified is intended for the benefit of such members of the public as may be brought into business relations with such departments, and is not in any sense a regulation of the hours of labor of the employees therein. If, in the opinion of those to whose responsibility and discretion the business of such department is intrusted, the labor of the employees within the hours specified in the section above quoted is sufficient to accomplish, with due care and diligence, the business of the department, the hours of labor for employees who perform office work may well be made to coincide with the period during which, under St. 1903, c. 229, the office of the department must be kept open for business.

On the other hand, I am aware of no statutory regulation which would prevent the heads of the several departments of the Commonwealth from requiring a longer period of service from employees engaged in office work, if such additional service should be necessary for the proper performance of the work of the department.

There is in R. L., c. 106, § 19, a provision to the effect that "nine hours shall constitute a day's work for all laborers, workmen and mechanics who are employed by or in behalf of the commonwealth, or of any county, city or town therein. . . ." While this section obviously applies to all laborers, workmen and mechanics who may be employed by your commission, in my opinion it is not to be construed to extend to or include employees whose duties are of such a character as to be properly within the term "office work."

Very truly yours,

HERBERT PARKER, Attorney-General.

Licenses — Engineers and Firemen — Citizenship and Residence of Applicant.

An applicant for a license under the provisions of R. L., c. 102, § 81, to act as engineer or fireman, is entitled to be examined, and, if found competent, to receive his license, notwithstanding the fact that he is not a citizen of this Commonwealth and that his residence therein appears to be only temporary.

FEB. 4, 1904.

JOSEPH E. SHAW, Esq., Deputy Chief, Massachusetts District Police.

DEAR SIR: — R. L., c. 102, § 81, provides in part as follows: "Whoever desires to act as engineer or fireman shall apply for a license therefor to the examiner of engineers for the city or town in which he resides or is employed."

Your communication states that under this statute a person has presented himself to one of the inspectors of police in your department for the purpose of being examined as to his qualifications as an engineer. The applicant has lived in the State since last November, and it is stated that the evident purpose of the application is to obtain a license "supposedly to be used as a recommendation for employment in some other State." Under these circumstances you desire to be informed whether, under the existing law, the inspector may examine, and, if qualified, issue to such applicant a license. You further inquire how the word "resident" as used in this statute is to be construed.

In general, a resident of a particular locality is one whose place of abode is there and who has no present intention of removing therefrom. So in Lawson v. Adlard, 46 Minn. 243, the court say: "To put it concisely, a 'resident' of a place is one who dwells in that place for some continuance of time for business or other purposes, although his domicile may be elsewhere."

In the statutes of the Commonwealth the word "resident" has been commonly identified with the word "inhabitant," and a somewhat restricted construction has been given to it, inhabitants and residents being construed to mean citizens. See Opinion of the Justices, 7 Mass. 523. This construction, however, is not the only one which may be given to the term, as is intimated in Lee v. City of Boston, 2 Gray, 484, 490, where it is said that "the words 'inhabitant' and 'resident,' 'inhabitancy' and 'residence,' are commonly, though not invariably, used in the Constitution and laws of this Commonwealth as synonymous. There are a few passages in them where 'residents' has a somewhat broader significance than 'inhabitants,' and designates a class of persons who have no domicile within the State. Thus, where the Constitution confers authority upon the General Court to impose and levy assessments, rates and taxes upon all 'the inhabitants of and persons resident and estates lying within the Commonwealth,' it is apparent that the phrase 'persons resident' includes individuals who have no permanent home here, and are not strictly inhabitants of the State."

In the present instance I am of opinion that the word "resides" is used with a more general signification than that of citizenship, and that the statute does not restrict application for licenses thereunder to citizens of the Commonwealth. The obvious purpose of the act is to secure the safety of the public by requiring persons assuming to take charge of steam boilers and engines to demonstrate their fitness for such work, and has no necessary reference to the question of their domicile or citizenship. I cannot believe that the statute intended to distinguish between citizens and persons temporarily resident in the Commonwealth, and to exclude all persons except citizens from the business of operating steam boilers or engines; and, in my judgment, the word "resides" as used in R. L., c. 102, § 81, is to be construed in connection with the word "employed," and is of effect only to designate and establish the particular examiner to whom the applicant shall present himself.

In the particular case before me, therefore, I am of opinion that the applicant is entitled to be examined and to receive a license, provided he successfully passes the required examination.

Very truly yours,

HERBERT PARKER, Attorney-General.

Commonwealth's Land — Conveyance — Board of Harbor and Land Commissioners.

The Board of Harbor and Land Commissioners, under the provisions of R. L., c. 96, § 3, has no general authority to convey land belonging to the Commonwealth.

MARCH 23, 1904.

HON. WOODWARD EMERY, Chairman, Board of Harbor and Land Commissioners.

DEAR SIR:— You inquire whether, under the provisions of R. L., c. 96, § 3, your Board is authorized to sell and convey to the Old Colony Street Railway Company certain land on Mount Hope Bay in the city of Fall River.

R. L., c. 96, § 3, is as follows:—

Said board shall, except as otherwise provided, have charge of the lands, rights in lands, flats, shores and rights in tide waters belonging to the commonwealth, and shall, as far as practicable, ascertain the location, extent and description of such lands; investigate the title of the commonwealth thereto; ascertain what parts thereof have been granted by the commonwealth; the conditions, if any, on which such grants were made, and whether said conditions have been complied with; what portions have been encroached or trespassed on, and the rights and remedies of the commonwealth relative thereto; prevent further encroachments and trespasses; ascertain what portions of such lands may be leased, sold or improved with benefit to the commonwealth and without injury to navigation or to the rights of riparian owners; and may lease the same for periods not exceeding five years. It may make contracts for the improvement, filling, sale, use or other disposition of the lands at and near South Boston known as the Commonwealth Flats, may lease any portion thereof with or without improvements thereon, for such periods and upon such terms as it shall deem best, may regulate the taking of material from the harbor and fix the lines thereon for filling said lands, and shall cause a general plan of said lands to be prepared, whereon it shall designate the portions which in its opinion should be devoted to railway and commercial purposes and those which should be devoted to general purposes. All conveyances, contracts and leases made under the provisions of this section shall be subject to the approval of the governor and council.

The Board of Harbor and Land Commissioners was created by St. 1879, c. 263, with all the powers of the previously existing and separate boards of Harbor Commissioners and Land Commissioners. Undoubtedly, at the time when this statute was passed the Board of Land Commissioners had authority to convey land of the Commonwealth subject, in general, to the approval of the Governor and Council. See Gen. St., c. 5, § 15; Res. 1859, cc. 52, 103; Gen. St., c. 15, § 23.

In the revision of 1882, however, embodied in P. S., c. 19, § 3, the authority to sell land belonging to the Commonwealth was omitted from the section defining the powers of the Board of Harbor and Land Commissioners, and as it now exists in R. L., c. 96, § 3, which is a practical re-enactment of P. S., c. 19, § 3, no such authority is conferred, except in the case of lands at or near South Boston, known as the Commonwealth Flats. In view of the fact that this authority to sell disappears in 1882 and was not re-enacted in the Revised Laws, which now govern the action of the Board, it is interesting to observe that in the case of the lands above referred to, such authority is specifically given, and the use of the word "sale" in that connection, in my opinion, is of weight to show that it was intentionally omitted in the earlier provisions of R. L., c. 96, § 3.

In spite of the able and exhaustive brief of counsel for the petitioner for the execution of such sale, therefore, I am of opinion that the Board of Harbor and Land Commissioners is not authorized to convey to the Old Colony Street Railway Company land situated in or near the city of Fall River, and that if such a sale is desirable, competent authority must be secured to effect it.

Very truly yours,

HERBERT PARKER, Attorney-General.

Insurance — Burial Association — Foreign Corporation.

A so-called "burial association" which assesses its members, and, upon the death of a member, furnishes the services of an undertaker and the supplies incidental to a funeral to the value of $100, is an insurance company within the meaning of R. L., c. 118, § 65, and is subject to the provisions of the insurance laws.

Such an association, incorporated under the laws of a foreign State, would not be permitted to enter the Commonwealth under the provisions of R. L., c. 126, § 2, relating to foreign corporations, for the purpose of doing the business for which it was incorporated.

APRIL 1, 1904.

HON. FRANK M. HEATH, Chairman, Committee on Insurance.

SIR:—I have the honor to reply to your inquiries submitted to me in the following form of question:—

"1. Is a burial association an insurance corporation within the meaning of the laws of this State, and subject to our laws relating to insurance corporations?"

You state that the burial association referred to in your inquiry is conducted as follows: "It has a president, secretary, treasurer and board of directors. Members are elected by the directors. The conditions of membership are that each member shall pay a certain sum as an entry fee, and that he shall also pay any assessment. Assessments are limited to 12 cents, assessable upon the death of an adult member, and 7 cents, assessable upon the death of a child member. If there is sufficient money in the treasury to pay burial expenses upon the death of a member there is no assessment. Upon the death of a member no sum of money is paid to his family or representatives, but the contract of membership provides that an undertaker, employed by the association, shall furnish all that is required for the burial, at a cost estimated to be $100 in the case of an adult and $50 in the case of a child. There is no limit to the number of members other than as stated above. Each member must be a resident of the State, and membership may be limited to residents of a particular city or town."

Section 65 of chapter 118 of the Revised Laws provides that "all corporations, associations, partnerships or individuals doing business under any charter, compact, agreement, or statute of this or any other state, involving the payment of money or other thing of value to families or representatives of policy and certificate holders or members, conditioned upon the continuance or cessation of human life, shall be deemed to be life insurance companies, and shall be subject to the provisions of the insurance laws."

The association whose case is presented by your statement assesses its members, and upon the death of a member furnishes the services of an undertaker and the supplies incidental to a funeral to the value of $100. It is, therefore, in my opinion, an insurance company. Such an association, incorporated in another State, upon complying with the laws relating to foreign corporations, would not be entitled to do business here.

You further inquire whether the United States Burial League, a copy of whose contract you have forwarded to me and which is herewith returned, would be allowed to enter the Commonwealth under the laws relating to foreign corporations, and do the business for which they have been incorporated in the State of New Jersey. This inquiry I must answer in the negative.

Very truly yours,

Registered Pharmacist — Suspension of License or Certificate of Registration — Conviction.

The Board of Registration in Pharmacy, under R. L., c. 76, § 17, which provides in part that "the license or certificate of registration of a registered pharmacist shall not be suspended for a cause punishable by law until after his conviction by a court of competent jurisdiction," may suspend the certificate of registration or license of a registered pharmacist who has been duly found guilty of the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors and sentenced to pay a fine therefor and who has paid such fine, notwithstanding the fact that exceptions thereto have been filed and allowed and are still pending for argument before the Supreme Judicial Court.

APRIL 22, 1904.

C. F. NIXON, Esq., Secretary, Board of Registration in Pharmacy.

DEAR SIR: — The Board of Registration in Pharmacy requests the opinion of the Attorney-General upon the following state of facts: a pharmacist was found guilty of illegal selling of intoxicating liquors, and sentenced to pay a fine thereon. He paid this fine and filed exceptions, which were allowed and are still pending in the Supreme Judicial Court awaiting argument; the specific question submitted being, is there, upon such state of facts, a conviction within the meaning of R. L., c. 76, § 17, which is as follows: —

If the full board sitting at such hearing finds the person guilty, the board may suspend the effect of the certificate of his registration as a pharmacist for such term as the board fixes, but the license or certificate of registration of a registered pharmacist shall not be suspended for a cause punishable by law until after his conviction by a court of competent jurisdiction.

I am of opinion that there is upon the facts presented such a conviction as is contemplated by the statute authorizing the Board of Registration in Pharmacy to suspend a license or certificate of registration of such pharmacist. The word "conviction" is used in our statutes in two different senses, and in the statute above quoted it is to be taken in its more usual sense, that is, as meaning "the confession of the accused in open court or verdict returned against him by the jury which ascertains and publishes the fact of his guilt," and does not necessarily contemplate a sentence of the court.

It has been held that the intention of the statute is to give a pharmacist charged with a crime the right to a trial in the court having jurisdiction of his offence, but if his guilt be there established so that the court may impose sentence according to its powers, then it is sufficiently established for the board of pharmacy to act upon their finding and to impose the penalty according to their powers.

Upon the facts submitted to me it would seem that the guilt of the defendant was so far established as to empower the court to impose a sentence, and, indeed, it appears that the court, in the exercise of that power, had imposed sentence and rightly so, notwithstanding the exceptions, taken, under the provisions of R. L., c. 220, § 3.

A like rule of construction of the word "conviction" is disclosed in the opinion of the court in Commonwealth v. Lockwood, 109 Mass. 323, where it was held that the Governor, with the advice of the Council, might grant a pardon of an offence after verdict of guilty, and before sentence, and while exceptions allowed by the judge were pending in the Supreme Court for argument. This decision was made having regard to the provision of the Constitution, which refers to the pardoning power in the following language: "The power of pardoning offences, except such as persons may be convicted of before the senate by an impeachment of the house, shall be by the governor, by and with the advice of council; but no charter of pardon, granted by the governor, with the advice of the council before conviction, shall avail the party pleading the same . . .," from which it appears that a conviction upon which alone the power to pardon must rest may exist before sentence of the court is imposed.

I am therefore of opinion that upon the facts stated your Board may hold that a conviction, within the meaning of R. L., c. 76, § 17, appears upon which a suspension of the license or certificate of the party so convicted may be made.

Very truly yours,

HERBERT PARKER, Attorney-General.

Co-operative Bank — Consolidation — Rights of Minority — Constitutional Law.

The Legislature has no power to compel the minority members in an existing co-operative bank, which is not a stock corporation, to surrender their interest in such bank in exchange for an interest in a consolidated bank, as prescribed in House Bill No. 1181; but if enacted, the provisions of such bill will govern the rights of all members of co-operative banks organized after its passage, and will serve to authorize the consolidation of existing co-operative banks, if such consolidation is assented to by all the members.

APRIL 22, 1904.

HON. GUY A. HAM, Chairman, Committee on Bills in the Third Reading.

SIR: — Your committee desires my opinion on the constitutionality of House Bill No. 1181, which authorizes the consolidation of two or more co-operative banks doing business in the same city or town.

The bill provides for the consolidation of such co-operative banks in the following manner: If two-thirds of the members of each bank in writing approve of the consolidation, and if two-thirds of the members present and voting, at a special meeting duly called, vote in favor of consolidation, and if the Board of Savings Bank Commissioners approve, an order may be passed by the Board requiring the consolidation. Such order shall provide that the assets of the merged bank be turned over to the continuing bank, and that the latter assume all liabilities accrued on the former's outstanding shares. As to the rights of the shareholders in the merged bank, it provides: "No more shares shall be sold by or in behalf of a bank or banks so taken over, and for every share of such bank or banks there shall be issued to the holder thereof a share of the continuing bank of the series of the nearest and lower value, and the difference in the values of the old share and the new share so issued shall be paid forthwith to the said owner in cash; provided that such a new share, issued to take the place of a pledged share of the terminating bank, shall be issued as a share pledged under the original loan, and the said difference in value shall either be paid in cash to the owner of the pledged share or be credited on his original loan at the election of the continuing bank."

The effect of a consolidation upon the interests of a dissenting member should be carefully noted. When he took a share of stock in the A co-operative bank, he thereby agreed to pay to that bank $1 per month until there should stand to his credit from his payments and the profits derived from the use of his money the sum of $200, or until the share shall be withdrawn or forfeited. He might withdraw at any time before pledging his share, and receive, under certain restrictions, the money standing to his credit. If he should fall in arrears upon his monthly payments, and so continue more than six months, his share, at the option of the directors, might be forfeited, and he be paid the value of his share less a small fine for being in arrears.

Should this bill become law, according to its terms a two-thirds majority of the members of the A bank, acting with two-thirds of the members of the B bank, could compel a dissenting member in the former bank to make his monthly payments to the latter bank or else withdraw his share. The by-laws and rules of the B bank would govern him instead of those of the bank of which he originally became a member. If he takes a share in the B bank, the share given him is of the series having a value next below that of the series in the A bank, to which his old share belonged. The difference in value between the exchanged share and the new one, arising from the fact that the member had paid in more on the share in the A bank than the share in the B bank being of a later series credits him with, is given to him in cash, or, if he is a borrowing member, may be credited to him on his loan. Then if he does not keep up his payments on the new share, he ceases to be a member, and if he is a borrowing member, his security will be foreclosed.

It is apparent that the situation is different from that presented by a consolidation of ordinary public service corporations having fully paid shares, wherein there is a provision for buying, at their properly determined value, the shares of dissenting stockholders. In such a case the shares of the minority are taken from them, under legislative authority, upon payment of just compensation. Here no provision is made for taking their interest in the A bank at a properly appraised value paid by the B bank. The members are transferred, with their executory obligations, from one to the other. We have, therefore, no need to consider the power of the Legislature, in view of the public good to be derived from a merger of two banks, to require the property of the minority to be taken and paid for. See Black v. Delaware & Raritan Canal Co., 24 N. J. Eq. 455.

The question is whether the Legislature may, with the approval of two-thirds of the members of each corporation, compel a dissenting member to enter into a new contract with a different corporation.

At the beginning of the discussion certain uncontrovertible propositions may be stated.

It is not within the power of a co-operative bank, organized under the general laws, to consolidate with another without the consent of the Legislature. N. Y., etc., Canal Co. v. Fulton Bank, 7 Wend. 412; Noyes, Intercorporate Relations, §§ 17, 18.

It is within the power of a co-operative bank created by special charter to consolidate with another only when its charter permits it. Since the present bill applies to all co-operative banks, in considering its validity we need not investigate the charters of such co-operative banks as were created by special acts.

The power to merge with another similar institution is not one of the implied powers in furtherance of the objects of a co-operative bank. When a person enters one bank as a member of the association, he agrees to be bound by such acts as the majority may decide as advisable within the scope of the corporate purposes. He does not agree that the corporation may transfer all its liabilities and assets, including its contract with him, to another corporation.

Clearwater v. Meredith, 1 Wall. 25; McCray v. Junction R.R. Co., 9 Ind. 358; Botts v. Simpsonville, etc., Turnpike Co., 88 Ky. 54; Oldtown & Lincoln R.R. Co. v. Veazie, 39 Me. 580.

So far as the right of the State to object to such departure from the corporate purposes goes, that may be waived by the Legislature in passing an act authorizing consolidation upon unanimous vote of the members of both banks. The Legislature, however, has no power to waive for an individual shareholder his right to object that the corporation is transgressing the limits of its powers. When he invested his money in the co-operative bank he authorized the majority to act for him within the scope of its chartered powers. The transfer of his contractual right to another co-operative bank he did not authorize.

The discharge of one contracting party and the substitution of a new one are a serious impairment of the obligation of his contract. See Hamilton Mutual Insurance Company v. Hobart, 2 Gray, 543.

It being established that the consolidation is a vital departure from the purposes for which the constituent banks were organized, the important question is as to the effect of R. L., c. 109, § 8: "Every act of incorporation passed since the eleventh day of March in the year eighteen hundred and thirty-one shall be subject to amendment, alteration or repeal by the general court. All corporations which are organized under general laws shall be subject to such laws as may be hereafter passed affecting or altering their corporate rights or duties or dissolving them."

Did the existence of this act at the time of the creation of the constituent co-operative banks have the effect of making their members agree in advance to whatever changes of purpose the Legislature might authorize, no matter how radical?

The doctrine of certain cases is that by virtue of this reserved power the dissenting shareholder in a stock corporation may be bound by a change the effect of which would otherwise be to release him. See Durfee v. Old Colony, etc., R.R. Co., 5 Allen, 230; Buffalo and New York City R.R. Co. v. Dudley, 14 N. Y. 336. But I believe this view to be erroneous. Such power was reserved by the Legislature on account of the decision in the Dartmouth College case, that a charter is a contract within the meaning of the constitutional provision that no State shall pass a law impairing the obligation of a contract. This decision was supposed to deprive the States of that power of control over corporations which the public welfare demanded.

Accordingly, nearly all the States passed laws reserving the power of amending or repealing charters, but this power was never reserved for the purpose of enabling a corporation to alter in a radical manner the contract between its shareholders or for the purpose of enabling the corporation to impair a contract between itself and its members. It was solely to avoid the effect of the decision that the charter itself was a contract between the State and the corporation. The Legislature under this power may impose new duties and new restraints upon corporations in the prosecution of enterprises already undertaken, whether they should be assented to or not. But the Legislature cannot impose upon the minority of a corporation the duty of embarking in a new enterprise or of substituting their contracts with one corporation for similar contracts with another. All the Legislature may do is to grant the power, and then it is for the corporation to accept it or not, as it pleases. The right, therefore, to bind dissenting stockholders derives no additional support from the fact that the power of amending the charter had been reserved by the Legislature, but depends essentially upon the question whether the change is of such a character that it may be deemed so far in furtherance of the original undertaking and incident to it as to be fairly within the power of the corporation to bind its individual members by its corporate assent, or whether it is such a departure from the original purpose that no member should be deemed to have authorized the corporation to assent to it for him. See Kenosha, etc., R.R. Co. v. Marsh, 17 Wis. 13; Dow v. Northern R.R., 67 N. H. 1; Mills v. Central R.R. Co., 41 N. J. Eq. 1; N. H. & Derby R.R. Co. v. Chapman, 38 Ct. 56, 71; Zabriskie v. Hackensack, etc., R.R. Co., 18 N. J. Eq. 178. In the last case the court said: "The object and purpose of these provisions are so plain and so plainly expressed in the words that it seems strange that any doubt could be raised concerning it. It was a reservation to the State for the benefit of the public, to be exercised by the State only. The State was making what had been decided to be a contract, and it reserved the power of change by altering, modifying or repealing the contract. Neither the words, nor the circumstances, nor apparent objects for which this provision was made, can, by any fair construction extend it to giving a power to one part of the corporators as against the other, which they did not have before."

I should advise that this latter view is the correct one, and that the reserved power gives the Legislature merely the right to amend the charters of corporations as between corporation and State, not as between the majority and minority within the corporation, without hesitation, except for the fact of two Massachusetts decisions. Durfee v. Old Colony, etc., R.R. Co., 5 Allen, 230; Hale v. Cheshire R.R., 161 Mass. 443. The reasoning of the Massachusetts court in the former case is based upon the assumption that the reservation by the State of the power to alter, amend or repeal the charter of a corporation is intended not merely for the protection of the public, but also to enable the Legislature to authorize a corporation to engage in new enterprises solely for its own benefit and whether any interests of the public are concerned or not. If the reasoning is sound, then the Legislature might authorize a majority of the stockholders of a manufacturing company to engage in banking, insurance or railroading against the dissent of the minority. Under this doctrine the money invested by a stockholder in a corporation, and his contract with it, are at the mercy of the Legislature and a majority of the stockholders. I quote from the language of the court, Bigelow, C.J., page 243 et seq.: “When, therefore, it is expressly provided between the Legislature on the one hand and the corporation on the other, as a part of the original contract of incorporation, that the former may change or modify or abrogate it or any portion of it, it cannot be said that any contract is broken or infringed when the power thus reserved is exercised with the consent of the artificial body of whose original creation and existence such reservation formed an essential part. The stockholder cannot say that he became a member of the corporation on the faith of an agreement made by the Legislature with the corporation, that the original act of incorporation should undergo no change except with his assent. Such a position might be asserted with more plausibility if there was an absence of a clause in the original act of incorporation providing for an alteration in its terms. In such a case it might perhaps be maintained that there was a strong implication that the charter should remain inviolate, and that the holders of shares invested their property in the corporation relying upon a contract entered into between it and the Legislature that the provisions of the act creating it should remain unchanged. But it is difficult to see how such a construction can be put on a contract which contains an express stipulation that it shall be subject to amendment and alteration. If it be asked by whom such amendment or alteration is to be made, the answer is obvious: by the parties to the contract, the Legislature on the one hand and the corporation on the other; the former expressing its intention by means of a legislative act, and the latter assenting thereto by a vote of the majority of the stockholders, according to the provisions of its charter. It is nothing more than the ordinary case of a stipulation that one of the parties to a contract may vary its terms with the assent of the other contracting party. In such case, all persons claiming derivative rights or interests under the original contract, with notice of its terms, would be bound by the amendment or alteration to which the parties should agree. . . . It is a mistake, therefore, to say that the contract of a stockholder with a corporation established under our statutes binds the latter to undertake no new enterprise and engage in no business or operation other than that contemplated by the original charter. This interpretation puts aside the express provision authorizing an amendment or alteration of the act of incorporation, and gives it no effect against a stockholder without his assent, although he bought his stock or subscribed for his shares subject to the legal effect of such a stipulation. The infirmity of the argument in behalf of the plaintiff is that it admits that an amendment may be legal and valid as to the corporation, if they assent to it by a vote of the majority, while at the same time it sets it aside as against the stockholder who refuses to sanction it, on the ground that as to him it is illegal and void. But we cannot see how the amendment can be said to be legal and illegal uno et eodem flatu. If it is valid as to the corporation, for the reason that they have accepted and approved it according to the provisions of their charter, it would seem that it must also be binding on the stockholder, who has agreed that his rights and interests in the corporation shall be regulated and controlled by a vote of a majority, acting in conformity to the original constitution of the corporation, and within the scope of its corporate powers. The real contract into which the stockholder enters with the corporation is that he agrees to become a member of an artificial body which is created and has its existence by virtue of a contract with the Legislature, which may be amended or changed with the consent of the company, ascertained and declared in the mode pointed out by law. Having, by virtue of the relation which subsists between himself and the corporation as a holder of shares, assented to the terms of the original act of incorporation, he cannot be heard to say that he will not be bound by a vote of the majority of the stockholders accepting an amendment or alterations of the charter made in pursuance of an express authority reserved to the Legislature, and which by such acceptance has become binding on the corporation."

This reasoning is unsound because it leaves out of sight the contract made by the shareholders of a corporation with each other, which is the basis of incorporation, and considers the charter only as a contract with the State. The decision, however, is not necessarily inconsistent with the true view. The new enterprise which a dissenting stockholder sought to enjoin was an extension of the railroad from Fall River to Newport by building as far as the State line and taking a lease of the Rhode Island railroad. This was fairly within the purposes of the Old Colony charter and gave no cause of complaint to a stockholder. It was a slight enlargement of the corporate purposes, not a deviation from them. The State waived the right which it possesses over public service corporations to object to the enlargement of the corporate purpose. The court, indeed, observed this distinction between that case and one like the present, saying, at page 246: "It was urged, as a grave objection against the doctrine above stated, that it puts the minority of the stockholders of a corporation entirely within the control of the Legislature and a majority of the stockholders, and that there would be no limit or restraint placed on the exercise of the power, so that corporations might be diverted to purposes and objects wholly foreign to those for which they were originally established, and stockholders might be made to participate against their will in undertakings which they never contemplated and which they deemed inexpedient or ruinous. . . . No such question arises in the present case, inasmuch as the additional acts, the validity of which is called into controversy by the plaintiff, do not empower the defendants to engage in any undertaking essentially different in kind from that which was embraced in the original acts by which their corporate existence under their present name was authorized and established."

And again, on page 241, the court calls attention to another distinction which exists between that case and the present: "Nor are we called on to determine the effect which such a legislative act would have upon a previously existing executory contract entered into with the corporation; as, for instance, an agreement to subscribe for stock and to become a member of a corporate body, created or to be established for certain distinct and designated objects. No such question arises in the present case. The plaintiff had no executory agreement with the defendants at the time the act in question was passed by the Legislature, or when it was approved and accepted by a legal vote of the corporation."

In Hale v. Cheshire Railroad, 161 Mass. 443, it was held that a minority stockholder in the Cheshire railroad which, without his objection, had consolidated with the Fitchburg railroad by authority of the Legislature was bound by the terms of the consolidation and could not have an accounting of his share of the assets of the Cheshire railroad as upon a dissolution. The court said: "Dissenting stockholders are bound by the vote of the majority, acting in good faith and within legislative sanction. It was within the constitutional power of the Legislature to authorize the consolidation. If the plaintiffs had any ground for complaint as to the terms of the plan of consolidation, they should have tried to prevent its going into effect. They virtually concede, however, that the Legislature might sanction a consolidation which should go into effect against their protest. Since the consolidation has gone into effect, they cannot now maintain a claim for better terms to themselves than have been voted."

There is no further discussion of the broad question involved, and, indeed, no point was raised in argument except how much the plaintiff was entitled to receive for his stock. Manifestly, the court could not make a different contract as to that from the one which the corporation, of which he was a member, had made when he conceded that the corporation had a right to make it.

I, therefore, conclude that the Legislature has no power to compel the minority in an existing co-operative bank, which is not a stock corporation, to give up their interest in it for an interest in a consolidated bank in the manner prescribed by this bill. This is not saying, however, that the bill as it stands is unconstitutional. If enacted, it certainly will govern the rights of all members of co-operative banks organized after its passage. Even as to existing banks, it authorizes their consolidation, and, if all the members assent, a consolidation under it will be binding upon all. See Nugent v. Supervisors, 19 Wall. 249; Dickinson v. Consolidated Traction Co., 114 Fed. 232, 252.

Taxation — Foreign Express Company — Interstate Commerce.

St. 1903, c. 437, § 75, imposing an excise tax upon foreign corporations admitted to transact business within this Commonwealth under the provisions of section 58 of such statute, is not applicable to an express company organized under the laws of a foreign State and receiving no goods in Massachusetts for delivery within the Commonwealth, the business transacted by such company being interstate commerce, and as such exempt under the Constitution of the United States, Article I, § 8, from State regulation and control.

APRIL 25, 1904.

HON WILLIAM D. T. TREFRY, Commissioner of Corporations.

DEAR SIR:—In your letter of February 4 you desire my opinion upon the question whether an express company organized under the laws of a foreign State and receiving no goods in Massachusetts for delivery at other points within the Commonwealth is liable to a tax under St. 1903, c. 437, § 75.

The business of such company is interstate commerce, and is exempt under the federal constitution from State regulation and control. The State may not attach conditions to the right of transacting it beyond local regulations made in the proper exercise of the police power. It may not enjoin the corporation from the transaction of its business. See Western Union Telegraph Company v. Massachusetts, 125 U. S. 530, 554; Crutcher v. Kentucky, 141 U. S. 47; Opinion of the Attorney-General, June 5, 1903.

The corporation is liable, however, to be taxed upon all its property, both tangible and intangible, within the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth in return for the protection which its property receives under our laws. While indirectly affecting interstate commerce, taxation is not considered as a burden on its free exercise. Pittsburgh, etc., Railway Company v. Backus, 154 U. S. 421; Adams Express Company v. Ohio, 165 U. S. 194; Western Union Telegraph Company v. Texas, 105 U. S. 460.

The franchise of the corporation is property, and not being derived from the United States is subject to taxation either directly or indirectly. Atlantic & Pacific Telegraph Company v. Philadelphia, 190 U. S. 160, 163, and citations. In assessing a tax upon such corporation the State is not restricted to the property physically located within its limits, but since the value of this property is enhanced by the manner of its use in connection with the system of the company's business throughout the country, it may tax the corporation upon a proportion of its total value, including all its franchises, if such proportion is based upon the property within the State. Adams Express Company v. Ohio, 165 U. S. 194; Adams Express Company v. Ohio (on petition for rehearing), 166 U. S. 185; Adams Express Company v. Kentucky, 166 U. S. 171.

Further, the court has held that the form of the tax is not essential. It may be framed as an excise tax upon the privilege of doing business within the State, provided the exaction be not susceptible of exceeding the sum which might be levied directly on its property, and that payment be not made a condition precedent to the right to carry on the business, but that the enforcement of the tax be left to the ordinary means devised for the collection of taxes. The ascertainment of the amount, whatever the tax be called, must be made dependent in fact on the value of the corporation's property situated within the State. Postal Telegraph Cable Company v. Adams, 155 U. S. 688; Maine v. Grand Trunk Railway Company, 142 U. S. 217; New York v. Roberts, 171 U. S. 658.

The tax in question is imposed in the following terms :—

SECTION 75. Every foreign corporation of the classes described in section fifty-eight shall, in each year, at the time of filing its annual certificate of condition, pay to the treasurer and receiver general, for the use of the commonwealth, an excise tax to be assessed by the tax commissioner of one hundredth of one per cent. of the par value of its authorized capital stock as stated in its annual certificate of condition; but it may deduct from such tax the amount of taxes upon property paid by it to any city or town in the commonwealth during the preceding year, and the amount of such excise tax shall not in any one year exceed the sum of two thousand dollars.

This tax is not founded in any way upon the property of the company situated in Massachusetts. It can only be regarded as an excise tax based upon the fact of doing business in the Commonwealth. Pratt v. Street Commissioners of Boston, 139 Mass. 559, 562. Like the tax held invalid in Leloup v. Mobile, 127 U. S. 640, which overruled Osborne v. Mobile, 16 Wall. 479, it affects all the property of the corporation, wherever situated. While it is far smaller in amount than a valid property tax might be, yet the mode of assessment cannot be sustained if we apply it to this corporation. The Legislature might make the tax any percentage of the capital stock it desired, and in case of ordinary foreign corporations such tax would be valid, subject only to the requirement of the Massachusetts Constitution that it be a reasonable excise. But in taxing a corporation which is engaged wholly in the business of interstate and foreign commerce, the amount of tax must be based upon the company's property subject to the jurisdiction of this Commonwealth.

I therefore advise that the tax imposed by section 75 does not apply to the company in question.

HERBERT PARKER, Attorney-General.

Corporation — Organization beyond the Limits of the Commonwealth.

Persons associating together under the provisions of St. 1903, c. 437, §§ 9, 10, to form a business corporation, may not legally hold the meeting at which the organization of such corporation is to be effected beyond the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth.

APRIL 28, 1904.

HON. WILLIAM D. TREFRY, Commissioner of Corporations.

DEAR SIR:— In answer to your inquiry as to whether or not "the associates who form a corporation under the provisions of chapter 437 of the Acts of 1903, sections 9 and 10, may hold the meeting for organization outside the Commonwealth," I have to advise you that in my opinion such meeting may not be held beyond the limits of the Commonwealth.

The statute above referred to contains, it is true, no express provision with regard to the place where such first meeting shall be held, but the doctrine that a corporation can have no legal existence beyond the limits of the sovereignty by which it is created is well established. See Bank of Augusta v. Earle, 13 Peters, 519. The precise issue presented by your inquiry has been passed upon in many jurisdictions, with the uniform result, that an organization effected beyond the jurisdiction of the State by virtue of whose law the incorporation is authorized has been held to be void and without effect. Miller v. Ewer, 27 Maine, 509; Smith v. Silver Valley Mining Co., 64 Maryland, 85; Camp v. Bryne, 41 Missouri, 525; and see 1 Op. Atty-Gen., 185.

This conclusion is strengthened by the provisions of St. 1903, c. 437, § 18, that the clerk of a corporation organized thereunder shall be a resident of the Commonwealth; and in section 20, that all meetings of the stockholders shall be held within its limits.

These provisions, although not in themselves decisive of the question submitted, in my judgment tend to show that the Legislature did not contemplate that any of the meetings of a Massachusetts corporation should be held beyond the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth.

HERBERT PARKER, Attorney-General.

Constitutional Law — Hours of Labor on Public Works.

It would seem, in view of the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in Atkin v. Kansas, 191 U. S. 207, that a proposed bill regulating the hours of labor of workmen employed by the Commonwealth, by the several counties and by certain cities and towns, or by persons contracting with the Commonwealth, the counties and such cities and towns, would not, if enacted, be open to objection upon constitutional grounds.

MAY 6, 1904.

HON. LOUIS A. FROTHINGHAM, Speaker of the House of Representatives.

SIR: — I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of an order of the Honorable House of Representatives passed on the second day of May, 1904, which is of the tenor following: "Ordered, that the Attorney-General be requested to furnish to the House of Representatives his opinion as to the constitutionality of the provisions of House Bill No. 1320, which regulates the hours of labor of workmen employed by the Commonwealth, or by any county, or by certain cities and towns, or by persons contracting with the Commonwealth or with any county or with certain cities and towns," with which order the bill referred to was transmitted to me. The act referred to is substantially the same in its provisions as that which received my consideration in an opinion under date of June 15, 1903, and the attention of my predecessor, Attorney-General Knowlton, in his opinion of April 24, 1901.

I have the honor to advise the House of Representatives that in my opinion the bill is constitutional, so far as it applies to the Commonwealth. So far as it applies to municipalities and counties within the Commonwealth, the reasons for holding it to be unconstitutional as in effect taking property without compensation and without due process of law, and as authorizing the appropriation of taxpayers' money for private purposes, have been already set forth in the opinions above referred to.

Since the last opinion of the Attorney-General above cited, a majority of the Supreme Court of the United States, in an opinion written by Mr. Justice Harlan, have decided that an act of the State of Kansas, similar in its provisions to the act now submitted to me, did not conflict with the fourteenth amendment of the federal Constitution. The Chief Justice and Justices Brewer and Peckham dissented from the opinion of the court above cited.

Though the opinion is by a divided court, and though the adjudication of the majority is not necessarily or conclusively binding upon the courts of the Commonwealth, since the decision of that majority was in favor of the constitutionality of the Kansas act, it is, nevertheless, manifest that the decision itself must be of commanding if not controlling influence upon other tribunals. I should, therefore, deem it presumptuous and perhaps an exhibition of undue hardihood if I assumed to reaffirm my former opinion, which is approved by a minority of the justices of the United States Supreme Court.

It is to be noted that since the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the Kansas case (Atkin v. Kansas, 191 U. S. 207), an elaborate and most carefully considered decision has been made by the Court of Appeals of New York in Ryan v. the City of New York, 177 N. Y. 271. The majority of that court hold to the view of the majority of the Supreme Court of the United States in the Kansas case. O'Brien, Bartlett and Vann, JJ., however, dissent in a long opinion based upon the same reasons which have influenced the Attorneys-General of Massachusetts in their opinions upon the unconstitutionality of the legislation embodied in the act now referred to me.

In view of the opinions of the Supreme Court of the United States and of the appellate court of New York above cited, I must advise the Honorable House of Representatives that there now appears judicial determination of high authority holding that the proposed legislation is within the constitutional limitations.

Very truly yours,

HERBERT PARKER, Attorney-General.

Pauper — Disease dangerous to Public Health — Removal to State Hospital — Expenses of Transportation.

The State Board of Charity is authorized by R. L., c. 85, § 14, to direct the local authorities to remove to the State Hospital a State pauper found within the limits of their jurisdiction who is afflicted with the disease of leprosy; and in case such removal is ordered, the expense of transportation must in the first instance be borne by the town, which is entitled to subsequent reimbursement from the Commonwealth "for the excess over thirty miles by the usual route, at a rate not exceeding three cents a mile," in accordance with the provisions of R. L., c. 85, § 9.

MAY 10, 1904.

J. F. LEWIS, M.D., Superintendent, State Adult Poor.

DEAR SIR:— You request my opinion upon the following questions relating to the removal to the State Hospital of an unsettled pauper now resident in the town of Harwich, and stated to be infected with a disease which is diagnosed as leprosy.

1. Has the State Board of Charity any authority, under the statutes, to order his removal from the town of Harwich?

2. If the above interrogatory is answered in the affirmative, and the State Board of Charity orders the removal by the authorities of the town of Harwich, should the expenses of such removal be borne by the Commonwealth?

It is my opinion that the State Board of Charity has authority to order the removal of such pauper to the State Hospital.

R. L., c. 85, § 14, provides:—

No city or town officer shall send to the state hospital any person who is infected with smallpox or other disease dangerous to the public health, or, except as provided in section ten, any other sick person whose health would be endangered by removal; but all such persons who are liable to be maintained by the commonwealth shall be supported during their sickness by the city or town in which they are taken sick, and notice of such sickness shall be given in writing to the state board of charity, which may examine the case and, if found expedient, order the removal of the patient; but such notice in the case of sick persons whose health would be endangered by such removal shall be signed by the overseers of the poor or by a person appointed by them by special vote, who shall certify, after personal examination, that in their or his opinion such removal at the time of his application for aid would endanger his health. A city or town officer who knowingly violates the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than one hundred dollars.

The natural interpretation of this statute is, that "all such persons who are liable to be maintained by the commonwealth" includes "any person who is infected with smallpox or other disease dangerous to the public health" as well as "any other sick person whose health would be endangered by removal." Moreover, the language of the requirement that "such notice in the case of sick persons whose health would be endangered by such removal shall be signed by the overseers of the poor . . . who shall certify . . . that . . . such removal . . . would endanger his health," implies an intent of the Legislature that notice be required in the case of both classes of persons; and if the provision as to notice so applies, the provision as to ordering removals is also applicable.

Such seems to be the meaning of the section as it stands, and whatever may be the effect of Acts of 1902, c. 213, § 1, providing that "notice shall be given to the state board of health in accordance with the provisions of section fifty-two of chapter seventy-five of the Revised Laws," which section is as follows:—

If the board of health of a city or town has had notice of a case of smallpox, diphtheria, scarlet fever or of any other disease dangerous to the public health therein, it shall within twenty-four hours thereafter give notice thereof to the state board of health stating the name and the location of the patient so afflicted, and the secretary thereof shall forthwith transmit a copy of such notice to the state board of charity,— on the requirement of notice, it certainly does not repeal or revise the provision conferring authority to remove a pauper. Nor do the statutes providing for the care of persons infected with diseases dangerous to the public health (see R. L., c. 75, §§ 35 to 58, inclusive; Acts of 1902, c. 206) contain anything inconsistent with this view of the law.

It is my opinion, in reply to your second inquiry, that the town must bear the expense in the first place, and that the Commonwealth must reimburse such town for the expense of transportation, for the excess over thirty miles by the usual route. R. L., c. 85, § 9, provides:—

Cities and towns may, at their own expense, send to the state hospital, to be maintained at the public charge, all paupers who may fall into distress therein, and who have no settlement within the commonwealth. The city or town shall be reimbursed by the commonwealth, upon bills approved by the state board of charity, for the expense of transportation of each state pauper thus sent, for the excess over thirty miles by the usual route, at a rate not exceeding three cents a mile.

It appears from this statute that the town or city sending a State pauper to the State Hospital is entitled to be reimbursed for a part of the expense incurred. Payment for transportation expenses was authorized in Acts of 1852, c. 275, § 8, in the original statute establishing State almshouses. The first provision for payment applied to all paupers sent to such institutions, and no exception to the operation of the statute authorizing removals was made in the case either of persons whose health would be endangered or of those who were infected with dangerous diseases. Later statutes, beginning in 1855, made these exceptions. See Acts of 1855, c. 445, § 2; Acts of 1865, c. 162; P. S., c. 86, § 25; Acts of 1885, c. 211; R. L., c. 85, § 14; Acts of 1887, c. 440; R. L., c. 85, § 10; Acts of 1903, c. 213. In Acts of 1865, c. 162, and succeeding acts, including R. L., c. 85, § 14, authority is given to the Board of Charity, in either one of these exceptional cases, to "examine the case, and, if found expedient, order the removal of the patient." It is to be noted that the removal is to be "ordered," not made, by the Board, which leads to the conclusion that an order of the Board of Charity merely puts the case, otherwise within the exception, on the same footing as a case not within the exception. This being true, the provision for reimbursement under R. L., c. 85, § 9, applies to a case in which the Board of Charity has ordered the removal. Additional ground for this interpretation appears in the fact that no greater reason appears why a town should bear the expense of transportation of a pauper within the special classes than of one who is not, and that it may fairly be assumed that the statutes regarding the exceptional cases were passed for the protection of the health of pauper and public, rather than with any idea of changing the burden of the expense of transportation.

Very truly yours,

Statute of Limitations — Assessment of Compensation for Displacement of Tide Water.

The statute of limitations does not run against the Commonwealth in the matter of the assessment and collection of the tax imposed under R. L., c. 96, § 23, upon the displacement of tide water.

MAY 11, 1904.

HON. WOODWARD EMERY, Chairman, Board of Harbor and Land Commissioners.

DEAR SIR:—The Harbor and Land Commissioners ask the opinion of the Attorney-General whether the statute of limitations will run against the Commonwealth in the assessment and collection of a tax for tide-water displacement under R. L., c. 96, § 23.

The statute is as follows:—

SECTION 23. The amount of tide water which is displaced by any structure below high water mark, or by any filling of flats, shall be ascertained by the board, which shall require the persons who cause such displacement to make compensation therefor by excavating, under its direction, between high and low water mark in some part of the same harbor a basin for a quantity of water equal to that displaced; or by paying in lieu of such excavation an amount assessed by said board, not exceeding thirty-seven and one-half cents per cubic yard of water displaced; or by improving the harbor in any other manner satisfactory to the board; and the money shall be paid into the treasury of the commonwealth, and be reserved as a compensation fund for such harbor. The income thereof may be used under the direction of the board for the improvement of the harbor. An assessment for tide water which has been displaced may be recovered in an action of contract in the name of the treasurer and receiver general.

R. L., c. 202, § 2 :—

The following actions shall, except as otherwise provided, be commenced only within six years next after the cause of action accrues :

First, Actions of contract founded upon contracts or liabilities, express or implied. . . .

Section 17 :—

The limitations of the preceding sections of this chapter . . . shall apply to actions brought by the commonwealth or for its benefit.

When does the Commonwealth's right of action to collect an assessment for a displacement of tide water accrue? Before the assessment of the Harbor and Land Commissioners the Treasurer has no legal means of ascertaining the amount of the Commonwealth's claim and cannot sustain an action. His right, therefore, accrues at the date of the assessment. He must bring suit to collect the assessment within six years after it was levied.

No cause of action accrues to the Commonwealth until the Board of Harbor and Land Commissioners has made the assessment. Is the Board required to assess within six years after the displacement of tide water? The statute does not in terms limit the time.

The situation is somewhat similar to the case of an obligation which becomes fixed only upon the making of a demand. The doctrine has been stated by many courts that a person who is entitled to a payment after a demand which he may make when he chooses is bound to make demand within a reasonable time in order to preserve his rights as against the statute of limitations. In Shaw v. Silloway, 145 Mass. 503, it was said that this question had not been considered in Massachusetts.

In Campbell v. Whoriskey, 170 Mass. 63, the court said : —

It has sometimes been held, or seemingly assumed, that, even if many years are permitted to elapse without a demand, the statute will not begin to run until the demand is made. . . . Under this doctrine, carried to its extreme limit, a liability to a suit upon a claim might continue for an indefinitely long time. The extreme doctrine in the other direction is that the "cause of action accrues for the purpose of setting the statute in motion as soon as the creditor by his own act, and in spite of the debtor, can make the demand payable." . . . In some of the cases it is held that a demand must be made within a reasonable time, and that a reasonable time will not in any event extend beyond the statute period for bringing such an action . . . In Codman v. Rogers, 10 Pick. 112, 120, Mr. Justice Wilde said: "A demand must be made within a reasonable time; otherwise the claim is considered stale, and no relief will be granted in a court of equity. What is to be considered a reasonable time for this purpose does not appear to be settled by any precise rule. It must depend on circumstances. If no cause for delay can be shown, it would seem reasonable to require the demand to be made within the time limited by the statute for bringing the action. There is the same reason for hastening the demand that there is for hastening the commencement of the action; and in both cases the same presumptions arise from delay." Although he was merely stating the doctrine of laches in a suit in equity, his language has been quoted and referred to in several of the cases above cited as stating the true principle applicable to actions at law. . . .

We are of opinion that the true principle is that the time when the demand must be made depends upon the construction to be put upon the contract in each case. If the contract requires a demand without language referring to the time when the demand is to be made, it is as if the words "within a reasonable time" were found in it. What is a reasonable time is a question of law, to be determined in reference to the nature of the contract and the probable intention of the parties as indicated by it. Where there is nothing to indicate an expectation that a demand is to be made quickly, or that there is to be delay in making it, we are of opinion that the time limited for bringing such an action after the cause of action accrues should ordinarily be treated as the time within which a demand must be made. See Jameson v. Jameson, 72 Mo. 640. Such a rule seems fairly to apply the principles and analogies of the statute of limitations to the contract of the parties, and it is in accordance with the weight of authority in this Commonwealth and elsewhere.

This doctrine of the Massachusetts court applies the principle of the statute of limitations by analogy to a case not included in the statute. It is an extension of the equitable doctrine of laches to a situation arising at common law. The question is whether this principle should be applied against the Commonwealth so that the Treasurer's action, brought to recover an assessment, must fail if a board over which he has no control neglected to levy the assessment within six years after the displacement.

It is a general principle that a right in behalf of the Commonwealth does not fail because of the laches of its officers. State v. Brewer, 64 Ala. 287; Haehnen v. Commonwealth, 13 Penn. State, 617; State v. Sponaugle, 45 West Va. 415. Compare Commonwealth v. Bala, etc., Turnpike Company, 153 Penn. State, 47.

The statute of limitations itself could not defeat the right of the Commonwealth except that it is expressly applied to actions by the Commonwealth in R. L., c. 202, § 17. The Commonwealth has all the rights and prerogatives of a sovereignty until by statute it yields them up. One of these prerogatives is expressed in the maxim "Nullum tempus occurrit regi."

I am inclined to the view, there being no authority upon either side of the narrow question, that the principle of the statute of limitations should not by analogy be extended to bar this right of the Commonwealth to levy an assessment which is not expressly limited in time. In any event, if the Treasurer desires to bring suit within six years to recover an assessment levied more than six years after a displacement, the question whether he may maintain such action is worthy of a test case.

Very truly yours,

HERBERT PARKER, Attorney-General.

Constitutional Law — Obligations of Contract — East Boston Tunnel — Bonds — Tolls.

St. 1897, c. 500, § 17, which authorizes the construction by the Boston Transit Commission of the East Boston Tunnel, and its subsequent lease to the Boston Elevated Railway Company at an annual rental fixed thereby and payable to the city of Boston, by pledging such rental together with the tolls which the city is directed to collect from persons passing through such tunnel, "to meet the principal and interest of the bonds issued to pay for the construction of said tunnel," and expressing such pledge upon the face of the bonds "as one of the terms thereof," creates a valid contract between the city of Boston and the purchasers of such bonds which cannot be impaired by subsequent legislation; and House Bill No. 1192, which abolishes such tolls and instead thereof requires the city of Boston to set aside from the compensation received by it from the Boston Elevated Railway Company under St. 1897, c. 500, § 10, a sum equal to the amount which it would have received from such tolls, to be pledged in like manner to meet the principal and interest of the bonds, for the reason that it varies the terms of such contract by substituting for the source of income pledged to secure the bondholders another and different source of income, is unconstitutional and void.

MAY 16, 1904.

HON. ALBION F. BEMIS, Chairman, Committee on Metropolitan Affairs.

DEAR SIR:—The committee on metropolitan affairs has requested my opinion upon the constitutionality of House Bill No. 1192, entitled "An Act relative to the payment of tolls in the East Boston tunnel."

This bill is intended to amend St. 1897, c. 500, § 17, which authorizes the construction of the East Boston tunnel, and contains the provision that upon the completion of the tunnel the Rapid Transit Commission shall execute a lease thereof in writing to the Boston Elevated Railway Company, for a term expiring twenty-five years from the date of the passage of the act, at an annual rental equal to three-eighths of one per cent. of the gross receipts for each year ending September 30, of all lines owned, leased or operated by the corporation, to be paid to the city of Boston on or before the last day of November in each year, which rental shall be in full compensation for the exclusive use of said tunnel by said corporation, its sub-lessees, successors or assigns. Such other terms and conditions may be incorporated in the lease as may be agreed upon by the commission and the corporation, or, in case of disagreement, as shall be determined by the Board of Railroad Commissioners.

The material part of the section is as follows:—

Said city shall collect from each person passing through said tunnel in either direction a toll of one cent: provided, however, that if in any year ending on the thirtieth day of September the receipts from such tolls, together with the rental above-provided for, amount to a sum so in excess of the interest and sinking fund requirements of said bonds for that year that the board of railroad commissioners is of opinion that the toll may be reduced, said board shall on petition of ten citizens of said city establish such reduced toll for the period of one year from the first day of January next ensuing, as will in its opinion yield an amount sufficient to meet, with said rental, said interest and sinking fund requirements for that year; or said board may altogether discontinue such toll when it is of opinion that such rental alone is sufficient to meet said requirements; but any such reduction shall be carried into effect by a provision for the sale of tickets, and the cash fare shall continue to be one cent. The whole amount of such tolls and of said rentals is hereby pledged to meet the principal and interest of the bonds issued to pay for the construction of said tunnel or tunnels, and this pledge shall be expressed on the face of such bonds as one of the terms thereof; provided, however, that after such tolls have been discontinued if said rentals shall for any year ending on the thirtieth day of September yield an amount more than sufficient to meet the interest and sinking fund requirements of said bonds for such year such excess over said requirements shall be regarded as general revenue of said city. In case in any year the rentals and tolls above-provided for shall not yield a sufficient amount to meet said interest and sinking fund requirements the compensation received by said city under section ten of this act shall be applied so far as may be necessary toward meeting such requirements. Said corporation shall be the agent of said city to collect such tolls under such arrangements as shall be agreed upon by said city and said corporation, or in case of disagreement, as shall be determined by the board of railroad commissioners.

House Bill No. 1192 amends this section by striking out the provision above quoted with regard to the collection by the city of a toll of one cent, to be collected from each person passing through the tunnel in either direction, and enacting in place thereof the following:—

Said city shall set aside from the compensation received by said city under section ten of this act a toll of one cent for each person passing through said tunnel in either direction.

Section 10, herein referred to, provides that the Boston Elevated Railway Company may establish a maximum toll or fare of five cents, which sum shall not be reduced by the Legislature during the period of twenty-five years from and after the passage of this act, and further provides for a payment as compensation for the privileges therein granted and for the use and occupation of the public streets, squares and places by the lines of elevated and surface railroad owned, leased and operated by the corporation of an annual sum, the amount of which is to be determined by the amount of the annual dividend paid in each year, as therein provided. "The above sum shall be paid into the treasury of the Commonwealth and distributed among the different cities and towns in proportion to the mileage of elevated and surface main track reckoned as single track which is owned, leased and operated by said corporation and located therein."

The question submitted is whether or not the change made by House Bill No. 1192 is unconstitutional as impairing obligations of contract.

A consideration of the statutes above referred to in my opinion clearly shows that no obligation of contract subsisting between the Commonwealth and the Boston Elevated Railway Company is impaired or affected by the proposed amendment, and the bill, if unconstitutional, must be so by reason of the existence of a contract between the city and the purchasers of the bonds referred to in sections 17 and 18, which is impaired by its provisions.

The first question to be determined, therefore, is whether or not such a contract exists. Section 17 provides that the city shall collect a toll of one cent from each person passing through the tunnel in either direction, and for an annual rental of three-eighths of one per cent. of the gross annual earnings of the corporation, the amount received from both these sources being pledged to meet the principal and interest of bonds issued to pay for the work of constructing such tunnel. This pledge is expressed upon the face, and forms one of the terms of each of such bonds, and, in my opinion, constitutes a valid contract between the city and the bondholders, the obligations of which cannot be impaired by any subsequent legislation.

The second question to be considered is whether the change proposed to be made by House Bill No. 1192 is an impairment of the obligation created by this contract.

It is to be observed that the pledge above referred to is obviously designed to afford security for the full and timely payment of the principal and interest of the bonds issued to pay for the work of constructing the tunnel by specifically devoting a certain income to that purpose. If the income as assigned exceeds the amount necessary, the surplus may be treated as the general revenue of the city of Boston. If, on the other hand, the specified sources are not sufficient to provide the necessary sum, a third source of income is made available, namely, the income received by the city as compensation for the use of the public streets, ways and places, under the provisions of section 10. If, after experiment, it appears to the Board of Railroad Commissioners that the tolls and rental exceed the amount required for principal and interest of the bonds issued by the city, they may reduce the toll by making provision for the sale of tickets, though cash fares must still be paid in the same amount by passengers; and if the rental alone becomes sufficient for the specified purposes, the tolls may be discontinued.

House Bill No. 1192 in effect abolishes one source of income, viz., the tolls, and provides that the amount which would have been furnished to the city from such tolls shall be payable out of the compensation received by the city under section 10. This may or may not diminish or materially affect the sources of income available as security for the bonds issued, since the amount received as compensation under section 10 by the city may or may not be sufficient to provide for all deficits which may exist from year to year in the rental, the significant effect of the provision being to abolish the tolls entirely. This, in my judgment, constitutes a material interference with and impairment of the obligation of contract between the city and the bondholders created by section 17. If the effect of the proposed legislation were merely to substitute one security for another of equal value, it would be, if compulsory, objectionable on constitutional grounds; if the compulsory substitution be to provide a security of less value than the original, or one of a lower grade, it certainly conflicts with constitutional requirements.

It is forcibly argued by those in favor of House Bill No. 1192 that the change suggested is merely one of bookkeeping, transferring the liability to pay the amount due as tolls from the general public to the city of Boston, and designating the sum from which it is to be drawn, and that as regards the bondholders, the contract is not in any respect affected.

It appears, however, upon careful consideration, that the change is more material than the petitioners admit.

Section 17 provides a scheme for meeting the interest and sinking fund requirements of the bonds issued which involves the setting aside of a certain fixed and definite income as it accrues, and dedicating and appropriating the same directly and in specie, to meet the bond obligations; and further provides that the tolls paid by the public shall be discontinued upon certain contingencies set forth by the Board of Railroad Commissioners. This scheme and these conditions may well have been, and in my opinion were, considerations of weight with those intending to purchase bonds, when coupled with the distinct pledge that the receipts from such sources should be set aside for meeting the obligations of the bonds, and for this reason the conditions prescribed are material to the contract and formed a consideration for the purchase of the bonds.

The adjudicated cases upon this subject seem clearly to recognize the principle that the power of taxation as it existed at the time when the contract was made becomes a part of the contract, and, if necessary, can be availed of by the creditor under such contract without regard to subsequent legislation. Von Hoffman v. City of Quincy, 4 Wall. 535; Ralls County Court v. United States, 105 U. S. 733, 738; Mobile v. Watson, 116 U. S. 289. In these cases the power to tax was the general power of taxation vested in a municipality, and the courts, in substance, held that if under subsequent changes in the method of taxation and in the classes of property to be taxed the income derived from such taxation was insufficient to meet the requirements of the contract, the obligation of contract was impaired to the extent of the deficiency thus created.

Where a special tax levy or a special fund raised by taxation is made security for the payment of contract obligations, the creditor may insist upon payment from that source, notwithstanding the repeal of the law by which it was established. Seibert v. Lewis,

122 U. S. 284, 290; Nelson v. St. Martin's Parish, 11 U. S. 716. A contract of this character is discussed in Louisiana v. Pillsbury, 105 U. S. 278, at pp. 287, 288:—

These provisions, until the bonds were accepted, were in the nature of proposals to the creditors of the old city, of the municipalities and of Lafayette. The State in effect said to them: the city will give these bonds, running for the period designated, and drawing interest, in exchange for your demands; and as security for the payment of interest, and the gradual redemption of the principal, the city shall annually, in January, levy a special tax for that purpose to the amount of $650,000. The provisions were designed to give value to the proposed bonds in the market of the country, and necessarily operated as an inducement to the creditors to take them. When the bonds were issued and taken by the creditors, a contract was consummated between them and the city as fully as if all the provisions had been embodied as express stipulations in the most formal instrument signed by the parties. On the one hand, the creditors surrendered their debts against the former municipalities; and, on the other hand, in consideration of the surrender, the city gave to them its bonds, which carried the pledge of an annual tax of a specified amount for the payment of the interest on them, and ultimately of the principal. The annual tax was the security offered to the creditors; and it could not be afterwards severed from the contract without violating its stipulations, any more than a mortgage executed as security for a note given for a loan could be subsequently repudiated as forming no part of the transaction. Nearly all legislative contracts are made in a similar way. The law authorizes certain bonds to be issued, or certain work to be done upon specified conditions. When these are accepted, a contract is entered into imposing the duties and creating the liabilities of the most carefully drawn instrument embodying the provisions. Von Hoffman v. City of Quincy, 4 Wall. 535; Hartman v. Greenhow, 102 U. S. 672; People v. Bond, 10 Cal. 563; Brooklyn Park Commissioners v. Armstrong, 45 N. Y. 234.

The case now under consideration appears to be identical in principle with those decisions which deal with a specific source of income appropriated to the discharge of the obligation incurred under the contract; and there are a number of decisions which deal with facts substantially like those under discussion.

In Liquidators v. Municipality, 6 La. Ann. 21, an act of Legislature was passed in the State of Louisiana to provide for the payment of the debts of a municipal corporation, which authorized the creation of a sinking fund which was to be deposited and to be applied as specified in the act. In cases where creditors, acting thereunder, had surrendered the evidences of their debts and received new bonds, for the payment of which the fund was pledged, it was held not competent for a subsequent Legislature, in providing for the payment of the corporate debts, to give a different destination to the sinking fund by changing the depository of the fund, such change being held to be an impairment of the obligation of the contract. In Fuzende v. City of Houston, 34 Fed. Rep. 95, where a municipal corporation, under an ordinance authorized by its charter, issued bonds to provide for erecting a market-house, and agreed in the bonds that the revenue from the market should be devoted to the payment of the interest on the bonds and to the formation of a sinking fund for their redemption, it was held that the city could make no other disposition of such revenue. So in Brooklyn Park Commissioners v. Armstrong, 45 N. Y. 234, where bonds were issued by a municipality to raise funds for the payment of lands for a park, and the lands were specifically pledged for such payment, it was held that a subsequent act of Legislature authorizing a sale of such lands, free of trust and of existing liens under the original act, could not be sustained, such act being an impairment of the obligation of contract. See also Dillingham v. Hook, 32 Kan. 185. In City of St. Louis v. Sheilds, 52 Mo. 351, the facts were substantially like those now before me. The court held that, upon the repeal of a statute which authorized the city of St. Louis to raise money, by the issue of bonds, for harbor improvements and the construction of wharves, and established a wharf tax upon all real estate in such city, which, together with the revenue derived from the wharves after completion, was pledged to meet the payment of interest and to provide for the establishment of a sinking fund for the redemption of the bonds, no contractual relation existed as between the city and the State, and no obligation of contract was impaired by such repeal. It is to be observed, however, that the bondholders were not before the court, and it is intimated in the opinion that were "the bondholders asking for a protection of their rights and showing that the collection of their debts was impaired, a different case would be presented;" and in Gilman v. Sheboygan, 2 Black (U. S.), 510, to the same effect the bondholders were not before the court.

I am therefore of opinion that in so far as House Bill No. 1192 is designed to change the conditions and scheme of payment, and the obligations to secure the same under which the bonds issued to pay for the construction of the East Boston tunnel were sold, and which formed a consideration in such sale, it is unconstitutional.

Banking — Receipt of Money on Deposit — Certificates of Deposit — Business Corporation.

The receipt of money on deposit at interest and the issuance of certificates of deposit therefor is "banking" within the meaning of R. L., c. 115, and such business is forbidden to a corporation organized under the provision of St. 1903, c. 437, relating to business corporation.

JUNE 11, 1904.

WARREN E. LOCKE, Esq., Chairman, Board of Commissioners of Savings Banks.

DEAR SIR:— Your letter of January 20 submits for my consideration certain circulars and other advertisements issued by the Equitable Banking Company of Boston, soliciting deposits of money for periods of one, two or three years, and offering to pay interest thereon at six per cent., together with an extract from the charter of such corporation, and you inquire whether such charter "permits of their advertising for deposits and issuing certificates of deposits after the manner of a national bank." Inasmuch, however, as the Board of Commissioners of Savings Banks, as such, are not concerned with, or authorized to inquire as to, the charter powers of the Equitable Banking Company, unless some question presents itself which relates to the business of banking, I conceive your inquiry to be directed rather to the question whether receiving money on deposit at interest, and issuing certificates of deposit, is in fact conducting a banking business, and, if so, whether such business is permitted by the charter of the company.

The Equitable Banking Company is a Massachusetts corporation incorporated under the provisions of St. 1903, c. 437, known as the "Business Corporation Law." Section 1 of this chapter provides that it "shall not apply to corporations organized under general or special laws of this Commonwealth for the purpose of carrying on within the Commonwealth the business of a bank, savings bank, co-operative bank, trust company, surety or indemnity company, safe deposit company," etc. The business which the corporation is authorized by its charter to carry on is as follows:—

To carry on a general mercantile, mining and brokerage business, and also to carry on the business of buying and selling wages, salaries, contracts, accounts, notes, drafts and other choses in action, and to purchase the same at a price consistent with the security offered. Also to raise money either by the issue of bonds or on a mortgage, to organize corporations to buy or acquire other corporations, syndicates or business. Also the acquiring of any property, real or personal, such as mining, mining rights, land, buildings, machinery, tools, patents, patent rights, leases or licenses essential or convenient for such business, and generally to do any and all things necessary or incident thereto, but not to carry on any business within the Commonwealth prohibited by the laws of Massachusetts under the act relating to business corporations.

Since St. 1903, c. 437, expressly exempts from the operations of its provisions corporations organized for the purpose of carrying on the business of banking, such business being regulated by R. L., c. 115, I am of opinion that the Equitable Banking Company is not authorized to carry on a banking business in this Commonwealth, and if the receipt of money on deposit, and the issuance of certificates of deposit and the payment of interest on the money so deposited is banking, the corporation has exceeded its charter powers.

A bank is defined to be an institution, usually incorporated, with power to issue promissory notes intended to circulate as money, or to receive the money of others on general deposit, to form a joint fund, to be used by the institution for its own benefit, for one or more of the purposes of making temporary loans and discounts, of dealing in notes, foreign and domestic bills of exchange, coin, bullion, credits and the remission of money, with the additional privilege of receiving special deposits and making collections for the holders of negotiable paper, if the institution sees fit to engage in such business. "Practically, a bank is a place where deposits are received and paid out on checks, and money is loaned on security." Morse on "Banks and Banking," 4th ed., par. 2. The receipt of money on deposit and the creation thereby of a fund which may be used by the institution for its own benefit, is, therefore, an important function of the business of banking.

A certificate of deposit is "the written acknowledgment of the bank that it has received from a certain person a certain sum on deposit." Morse on "Banks and Banking," 4th ed., par. 297. Such certificates differ from promissory notes, not only because the certificate must be returned or tendered before payment becomes due, but also because it is in itself a declaration that a certain fund has been deposited which is payable to the depositor, or his order, on the return of the certificate; and such certificates are issued "with the design that they shall be used as money and taken with as much confidence as the bills of the bank." Shute v. Pacific National Bank, 136 Mass. 487.

In view of the nature of such certificates and the use to which they are intended to be put, I am of opinion that the authority to issue them must be held to be strictly limited to banks or other similar corporations organized under and regulated by the statutes applicable to the business of banking, and that a corporation organized under the provisions of St. 1903, c. 497, as a business corporation, has no authority to receive money on deposit and to issue certificates therefor.

Very truly yours,

HERBERT PARKER, Attorney-General.

Constitutional Law — Veto Power of Executive — Legislature — Passage of Bill or Resolve over Veto — Two-thirds of Branch originating Measure.

The Constitution of Massachusetts, Part II., chapter I., article II., by providing that where the veto power of the Executive is exercised, the bill or resolve, with his objection thereto in writing, shall be returned to that branch of the Legislature in which such bill or resolve originated, two-thirds of which branch may upon reconsideration agree to pass the same, and if approved in the other branch by two-thirds of the members present, it shall have the force of a law, — imposes upon that branch of the Legislature in which a particular act originates a different relation to and responsibility for such act from that attaching to the other branch, and requires that “two-thirds of the said Senate or House of Representatives,” whichever may have originated the measure, should be two-thirds of the full membership thereof, and not merely two-thirds of the members present, as in the case of the remaining branch.

It follows that St. 1904, c. 458, which originated in the House of Representatives and which was therein passed over the veto of the Executive by a two-thirds vote of the members then present but not by a two-thirds vote of its entire membership, was not passed over such veto in accordance with the provision of the Constitution (Part II., chapter I., article II.), and is null and void. The Treasurer has no authority, therefore, to issue the bonds authorized and required by the terms of such statute.

JULY 11, 1904.

HON. EDWARD S. BRADFORD, Treasurer and Receiver-General.

SIR: — I have the honor to acknowledge your communication of June 15, in which you ask my opinion as to the “constitutionality and legality” of chapter 458 of the Acts of 1904, which communication has had my attention and study since its receipt.

I am advised that the act in question originated in the House of Representatives, and I am informed that after the said act had been returned to that body by His Excellency the Governor, without his approval and accompanied by his reasons therefor, it appears by the journal of the House that two-thirds of its entire membership did not vote affirmatively to pass the said act notwithstanding the Executive veto. I am further informed that two-thirds of the members of the House present and voting did, however, affirmatively vote to pass the act notwithstanding the veto.

The question you raise is one of very serious importance. I take it to comprise an inquiry as to the constitutionality of the law, assuming it to have been duly enacted, as well as the question whether, as matter of law, it has been enacted at all in view of the Executive veto.

If the statute has been lawfully enacted, I am of opinion that I should not be justified in declaring it to be unconstitutional. The Supreme Judicial Court must determine that question if it be raised. I therefore confine my attention, investigation and discussion to the more specific inquiry and the more important, in view of my duty, whether it was in law enacted in view of the facts which I accept as above stated.

The constitutional provisions upon which this question must be determined are to be found in chapter I., article II., of Part the Second of the Constitution of this Commonwealth, the material part of which is to be found in the paragraphs defining the veto power of the Executive, the language being:—

But if he have any objection to the passing of such bill or resolve, he shall return the same, together with his objections thereto in writing, to the senate or house of representatives, in whichever the same shall have originated; who shall enter the objections sent down by the governor, at large, on their records, and proceed to reconsider the said bill or resolve. But if after such reconsideration, two-thirds of the said senate or house of representatives, shall, notwithstanding the said objections, agree to pass the same, it shall, together with the objections, be sent to the other branch of the legislature, where it shall also be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of the members present, shall have the force of a law.

There is an obvious difference in the phraseology defining the reconsideration and re-enactment of a law, notwithstanding the Executive veto, with regard to the two branches of the Legislature, the one in which the act originated and the other whose action supplements that of the branch in which the law had its origin; in the case of the branch originally acting it being required that there must be an affirmative vote of two-thirds of the said Senate or House of Representatives, and in the other case, the affirmative vote required being two-thirds of the members present. Whether the omission is the one requirement of the word "present" and its appearance in the other be intentional or accidental, suggests the first line of inquiry which my investigation pursues.

The presumption must be that the terms and provisions of the Constitution find place through the intent of its framers rather than through accident or inattention. I must therefore conclude that the difference of phraseology in the two sections above cited was intentional, and my inquiry is, in consequence, confined to the question whether this difference of phrase leads to a necessary difference of vote in the two houses required to enact a law, notwithstanding the veto of the governor.

That the attention of the framers of the Constitution was directed especially to this section is apparent from the report of the constitutional convention of 1779–80. The report of that convention, which is very incomplete and unsatisfactory, states that a motion was made to insert the words “being equal in numbers to those present at the passing thereof.” The report does not state at what point in the section these words were to be inserted. The convention, however, declared in favor of the paragraph in its present form. See Journal of the Convention, 1779–80, Boston, 1832.

The records of the constitutional convention of 1853 present an interesting and suggestive discussion of the question before me though it furnishes no decisive authority. Debates in Massachusetts Convention, 1853, volume III., page 662 et seq. A committee of the convention reported a revision of article IV., by which revision the word “present” was inserted and made applicable to the vote required for enactment after a veto, by the body in which the act originated. It was contended by Mr. Lord of Salem that the insertion of the word effected a palpable alteration of the Constitution which was beyond the authority of the reporting committee. Upon a question of order, whether the report, by reason of the change of phrase, did transcend the authority of the committee, the presiding officer of the convention ruled that it did not, since, in the opinion of the chair, “the insertion of the word ‘present’ does not change the substance of the article; the experience of the chair has been invariably that a question has been considered settled on receiving the assent of two-thirds of the members present and voting thereon. The chair does not therefore regard it as changing the substance of the article.” Mr. Lord earnestly and forcibly argued that the inserted word “present” did change the meaning of the Constitution, and he was opposed to such insertion both because it was beyond the authority and province of the committee as well as upon the broader ground that it diminished the vote required to override an Executive veto. He thereupon moved that the report of the committee be amended by striking out the word “present.” The question was taken upon this motion, and upon a division the vote stood, ayes 63, noes 162, and Mr. Lord's amendment was rejected.

The Constitution, with article IV. containing the inserted word "present," was adopted by the convention, but the new draft of the Constitution was rejected by popular vote. It thus appears that an attempt to amend the Constitution by the insertion of a word claimed by some to be only a change of phrase without change of meaning, and by others to be a change of substance, failed of accomplishment through the disapproval of the people, and so the attempt to remove the doubt of construction, if it were only such, failed; and it is also obvious that the express provision requiring only a two-thirds vote of members present for the passage of an act over the Governor's veto, if such were a change in the constitutional requirement, was not ratified by the popular assent.

Article XXXIII. of Amendments to the Constitution, adopted Nov. 3, 1891, is as follows:—

A majority of the members of each branch of the General Court shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, but a less number may adjourn from day to day, and compel the attendance of absent members. All the provisions of the existing Constitution inconsistent with the provisions herein contained are hereby annulled.

This amendment does not, in my opinion, affect the question before me or aid in its determination. None of the pre-existing provisions of the Constitution affecting this question are inconsistent with, or in consequence annulled by, those of this amendment, which merely defines what shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business in either branch of the General Court, and was evidently directed to and in amendment of article IX. of chapter I. of section II. and article IX. of chapter I. of section III. of the Constitution.

A constitutional requirement fixing the minimum vote necessary for affirmative action upon a specific proposition or question is not, in my opinion, affected by a provision designating the limit of attendance without which ordinary business cannot be transacted. Unless an amendment revises the whole subject embraced by the previous constitutional provision the latter cannot be held to have been repealed by implication, especially as it may be given, as in this case, full effect without conflict or inconsistency with the subsequent amendment. See Harnden v. Gould, 126 Mass. 413.

I have examined the reported rulings of presiding officers of the House and Senate upon the construction of the constitutional provision under consideration, and it appears to have been held that in the branch first taking action a vote of two-thirds of the members present is sufficient to pass a bill notwithstanding a veto. Clifford, S., 1862, page 625 ; Bullock, H., 1862, page 586. But such decisions, not being upon the construction of the rules of the Senate or House but upon the organic law superior to and controlling all legislative action, can neither be final, nor, indeed, be held to carry any authority beyond that of the learning and sound wisdom of the eminent gentlemen who declared them.

The dissenting opinion of Mr. Justice Bradley, in County of Cass v. Johnston, 95 U. S. 370, most forcefully presents reasons bearing high intrinsic authority of a great jurist, to the effect that in the absence of qualifying or limiting words a constitutional requirement of a specific vote of a given body means such vote of the entire body, not such proportion of the members thereof as may at any assumed moment participate in the vote.

The opinion of Mr. Justice Bradley appears to me consonant with the true principle governing this inquiry, and would by itself justify grave doubt whether, in the case before me, a two-thirds vote of members present in the house of origin of the bill satisfied the requirement of the Constitution, even if the phrase of requirement were identical as applied to action in both houses, and this view is directly sustained in the case of State v. Gould, 31 Minn. 189.

There are authorities, however, which hold that the word "house," where context, subject or condition suggests or induces such conclusion, is to be construed as meaning a quorum of such house. Southworth v. Palmyra & Jackson Railroad Company, 2 Mich. 287 ; Green v. Weller, 32 Miss. 650. The reason upon which these decisions rest is absent from the case before us, since it is here apparent that peculiar responsibility and gravity attach to that vote which is to nullify an Executive veto, and it is therefore to be distinguished from routine action incident to the mere transaction of ordinary legislative business. Again, the context under consideration before us exhibiting a difference in phrase forbids that generalization of reason which carried the opinion of the court in the cases above cited. In the construction of statutes, and much more so in that of the Constitution, it is the safe method to give effect to the particular words. When in the same sentence different words are used, the courts of law will presume that they were used in order to express different ideas. Parkinson v. State, 14 Md. 184, 197.

Where there is such difference of phrase as that plainly before us, that difference must be held to have an intentional significance which I certainly cannot and shall not assume to ignore by any rule of construction which holds that the word "present" in the second clause and absent in the first is mere heedless surplusage, the result of a want of consideration or inattention on the part of the framers of the Constitution, or the result of an incapacity that must await the charitable constructive assistance of commentators of a later day. I am of opinion that our Constitution took its vigor at the moment of its adoption and in the very phrase of its expression, and that no one of its provisions can be discarded, or that phrases of different form and import are yet to be held as of the same intent by any authority, save that of the decision of that tribunal to which its construction was by its own precept committed, the Supreme Judicial Court.

I cannot doubt that the courts will recognize a distinction in the phrases about which our inquiry centres, and unless it shall be held that these apparent distinctions are, nevertheless, to be construed as of the same effect and tenor, it must follow that an act can be passed, notwithstanding the Executive veto, only in the event that two-thirds of the entire membership of the house in which the act originated shall vote to pass the same, notwithstanding the veto; as it must certainly be held that the act may be passed, notwithstanding such veto, by the other house if two-thirds of the members present so vote.

I think, in view of such obvious difference in phraseology and apparently of such significance, it must be left to the courts of competent jurisdiction alone to declare that the framers of the Constitution nevertheless intended that no distinction should exist. A careful search of the reports of judicial construction has failed to disclose to me any such declaration; indeed, I have been able to discover no adjudication directly bearing upon this issue. I am therefore left to pursue such lines of reasoning as appear to me to be sound and conclusive, realizing that however they may so appear to me, they must still fail to carry that authority which can alone settle and determine the important question which your inquiry presents. But since you have sought, and may feel that you must govern your official action by, such opinion as I can render to you, I deem it my duty to suggest some of the reasons which guide me to the conclusion which I submit.

Assuming that full weight must be given to each and all of the provisions of the Constitution, and assuming that each is there inserted for a purpose, for every clause and word even of a statute shall be presumed to have some force and effect (see Opinion of the Justices, 22 Pick. 573; Browne v. Turner, 174 Mass. 150, 160), I conclude that the framers of the Constitution intended that that branch of the Legislature in which the act in question originated should hold a different relation and responsibility to it than that attaching to the action of the other branch, and it well may be as it indeed appears, that the Constitution intended that an act could be passed over the Executive veto only in the event that that house which was responsible for its original adoption had, on reconsideration after an Executive veto, passed it by a vote of two-thirds of its entire membership, and that such enactment, notwithstanding an Executive veto, should not depend upon the hazard of an attendance at the time of such final action measured by a mere quorum of the body. This line of reasoning of course presupposes, as I do, that the constitutional intent was that passage, notwithstanding a veto, should require a larger vote than that dependent upon a mere two-thirds of a quorum.

Taking up for a moment an analysis of the provisions relating to action by that house other than the one in which the act originated, I proceed to consider whether its requirements can be so construed as to be equivalent to or of like effect with those relating to the house of the origin of the bill, and it seems to me manifest that the vote required in the former case is obviously less than that required in the latter; nor can the two provisions be made, by any process of reasoning apparent to me, to be of the same significance.

Whether there was or was not good or sound reason for the apparent difference of requirement set forth in the Constitution is certainly beyond the legitimate field of my inquiry. If such a distinction appears and is held to be conclusive of the intent of the Constitution, it must and will be recognized and enforced by the courts, resulting, if my line of reasoning be accurate, in judicial declaration that unless two-thirds of the entire membership of the house of the origin of the bill vote affirmatively to pass it, notwithstanding a veto, there has been no enactment in law, and the supposed statute is in consequence a mere nullity.

Entertaining the opinion which I do and which I have herein stated, I must declare to you that in my opinion the act to which you call my attention is without validity, and is in law as if it had never appeared upon our statute book. In reaching this conclusion, I am not unmindful that a law duly enacted should be presumed to be constitutional until the courts of competent jurisdiction have finally otherwise decided, but it is to be observed that the question submitted to me and by me considered is not whether there was constitutional authority for this enactment vested in the Legislature, but whether the Legislature has acted within the limitations and according to the authority of the Constitution in the assumed passage of the act; in other words, I do not deal with the construction of the act itself with relation to constitutional questions, but I confine myself wholly to an inquiry as to the construction of the Constitution itself upon which the existence rather than the validity of the act is to be determined.

I therefore am constrained to advise you, in conclusion, that there is grave doubt whether you have any official authority or power to issue instruments which, upon their face and in form, shall declare an obligation of the Commonwealth. The issuance of bonds in tenor and form binding upon the State must have, in their inception, clear, unquestioned and unassailable authority. Upon the state of facts which I have assumed, and upon that construction of the Constitution to which my own judgment leads me, I am required to say that such authority does not, in my opinion, exist.*

Insurance — Authority of Foreign Fire Insurance Corporation to do Business within the Commonwealth — Revocation — Reinsurance.

When it appears that a foreign fire insurance corporation admitted to do business in this Commonwealth has reinsured risks on Massachusetts property in fire insurance companies not so admitted, without filing the affidavit required by R. L., c. 118, § 83, to the effect that the amount of insurance adequate to protect the property could not be obtained in companies regularly admitted to do business in Massachusetts, the Insurance Commissioner may, under R. L., c. 118, § 20, revoke the authority of the corporation to carry on business here, notwithstanding that the contract of reinsurance was made and was to be performed beyond the limits of the Commonwealth.

JULY 21, 1904.

HON. FREDERICK L. CUTTING, Insurance Commissioner.

DEAR SIR:—In your letter of July 1 you desire my opinion whether, upon the facts disclosed in the examination by your department of a foreign fire insurance corporation, you have power to revoke the company's authority to transact business in Massachusetts.

The corporation, which was admitted to Massachusetts in 1891, has, at its general offices in the city of New York, reinsured risks on Massachusetts property in companies which have not been authorized to do business in Massachusetts, no affidavit having been filed, in accordance with R. L., c. 118, § 83, that the amount of insurance necessary to protect the property could not be procured in admitted companies. In each case the contract of reinsurance was made and was to be performed in New York city.

* For a very full and instructive discussion of the origin and history of the veto power, see opinion of Nott, J., in United States v. Weil et al., 29 C. Cls. R. 523.

R. L., c. 118, § 20, provides in part as follows:—

If a company directly or indirectly reinsures a risk taken by it on any property located in this commonwealth in a company not duly authorized to transact business herein, . . . the insurance commissioner may revoke its authority to transact business in this commonwealth.

This statute does not limit such action by the Insurance Commissioner to acts done by the company within this Commonwealth; its intention is to prevent, so far as it may, the insurance of Massachusetts property by companies not under the control or supervision of this Commonwealth. It purports to authorize the Insurance Commissioner to revoke the company's authority, although the ground of revocation is an act done outside this jurisdiction. The question is whether this statute thus construed is constitutional.

While the Legislature has no right to require an owner of property situated in Massachusetts to insure it only in authorized companies (Allgeyer v. Louisiana, 165 U. S. 578), the right of the Legislature to dictate terms upon which a foreign company may reinsure its risks as a condition of remaining here rests upon a different and valid foundation. A person owning property here has a right to insure it in such company as he chooses, provided the forbidden act of insurance takes place outside the jurisdiction. Since the contract of insurance, if made outside the jurisdiction, for the sake of the owner is not to be interfered with, the other party to the contract, the insurance company, is sheltered by the owner's privilege, but in case of reinsurance, neither the insuring company nor the reinsuring company, when not authorized to do business here, is guaranteed by the Constitution the right to make that contract. The owner of the property and his rights are not to be considered, since the contract of reinsurance is entirely between the two foreign companies, there being no relation between the owner and the reinsuring company.

The State may prohibit foreign insurance companies entirely from doing business within its limits. It may then impose such conditions as it pleases upon the doing of business, and upon failure to perform the conditions it may refuse authority to do business or revoke an authority once given. Paul v. Virginia, 8 Wall. 168; Ducat v. Chicago, 10 Wall. 410; Hooper v. California, 155 U. S. 648; Manchester Fire Insurance Company v. Herriott, 91 Fed. 711.

In Waters-Pierce Oil Company v. Texas, 177 U. S. 28, a Texas

statute provided that every foreign corporation violating its provisions should forfeit its right to do business in Texas. The Attorney-General proceeded against a foreign corporation which was authorized to do business in the State for forfeiture of that right. In the United States Supreme Court the corporation contended that the statute limited its right to make contracts and took away its property without due process of law. The court sustained the forfeiture which had been declared by the State court, observing: "What right of contracting has it in the State of Texas? This is the only inquiry, and it cannot find an answer in the rights of natural persons." See also Blake v. McClung, 172 U. S. 239; *Orient Insurance Company v. Dagg*s, 172 U. S. 557.

It is no objection to the exercise by the Insurance Commissioner of the power given him by this statute that his reason for revoking the authority of the company is that the company has done an act outside the jurisdiction which the Commonwealth cannot effectually prohibit by penal laws, having no extra-territorial effect. Since insurance is not interstate commerce, the State may deprive a foreign company of the right to do business within its limits for any reason that it deems proper.

In Doyle v. Continental Insurance Company, 94 U. S. 535, the Supreme Court of the United States held that an injunction to restrain the Insurance Commissioner from revoking the license of a foreign insurance company must be denied. In that case the license was revoked for the reason that the company removed a case from the State to the federal court, in violation of a State statute providing that in case of such removal its license should be cancelled. The company, as a condition of its license, had been required to agree not to remove any case. Though the agreement was void (Insurance Company v. Morse, 20 Wall. 445), and a similar statute applying to a corporation or individual having a right to do business in the State would be unconstitutional as denying a right guaranteed by the federal Constitution (see Barron v. Burnside, 121 U. S. 186, 199), a majority of the court held that since a foreign insurance company has no constitutional right to do business within the State, it was justifiable to give the corporation the option either to stay out or to deny itself a federal right.

I therefore conclude that the statute authorizes you to revoke the license of the foreign insurance company for the reasons stated, and that the statute is valid though indirectly prohibiting acts done outside the State, since under it the corporation had an option to stay out of the State or comply with the statute.

Very truly yours,

HERBERT PARKER, Attorney-General.

Insurance — Fraternal Beneficiary Association — Foreign Corporation — Admission to Commonwealth — Mortuary Assessment Rates.

A foreign fraternal beneficiary association which was not doing business in the Commonwealth on May 23, 1901, and which does not at the time of its application have in force mortuary assessment rates not lower than those indicated as necessary by the National Fraternal Congress Mortality Tables, as required by R. L., c. 119, § 13, may not be admitted to carry on business within this Commonwealth.

JULY 22, 1904.

Hon. FREDERICK L. CUTTING, Insurance Commissioner.

DEAR SIR: — In your letter of April 27, you request my opinion whether the Supreme Lodge, Ancient Order of United Workmen, a foreign fraternal beneficiary corporation, may be admitted to do business in this Commonwealth.

The Supreme Lodge was incorporated in Kentucky in 1873. In 1878 it entered Massachusetts and established here subordinate lodges. In 1883 one of these subordinate lodges, called the Grand Lodge, Ancient Order of United Workmen, was incorporated under the Massachusetts laws. Although an independent fraternal beneficiary corporation, the Grand Lodge continued to affiliate with the Supreme Lodge and contribute to its support in a manner afterwards expressly made legal by St. 1899, c. 442, § 15 (R. L., c. 119, § 10). In 1886 the charter of the Supreme Lodge was withdrawn, and the Supreme Lodge continued to exist as a voluntary association until 1899, when it was incorporated under the laws of Texas. It is to-day a Texas corporation.

During the period from 1886 to 1899, while the Supreme Lodge was a foreign voluntary association, the Grand Lodge, the Massachusetts corporation, continued in business in Massachusetts and is still transacting business here.

The important feature of these dates to be noted is that during the period from 1886 to 1899 the Supreme Lodge was a foreign unincorporated association.

The law regulating the admission of a foreign fraternal beneficiary corporation is R. L., c. 119, § 13: —

No such corporation which was not doing business in this commonwealth on the twenty-third day of May in the year nineteen hundred and one shall hereafter be admitted to do such business in this commonwealth unless it shall have adopted and have in force mortuary assessment rates which are not lower than those then indicated as necessary by the "National Fraternal Congress Mortality Tables."

Two questions arise: —

(1) Was the Supreme Lodge doing business in Massachusetts on May 23, 1901?

(2) If not, has the Supreme Lodge in force mortuary assessment rates not lower than those indicated as necessary by the National Fraternal Congress Mortality Tables?

To discover whether the foreign body as well as the Massachusetts corporation was doing business here on May 23, 1901, it is necessary to look at the history of the statutes relative to such foreign corporations and associations.

St. 1888, c. 429, § 11, provided:—

Fraternal beneficiary corporations, associations or societies organized under the laws of another state, now transacting in this commonwealth business as herein defined, and which now report or which shall report when requested to the insurance department, may continue such business without incorporating under this act, by conforming in other respects to the foregoing provisions and to the requirements of section thirteen of this act.

This section was repeated substantially in St. 1890, c. 341, § 11.

In 1892 a special act (chapter 40) was passed, providing as follows:—

Section eleven of chapter four hundred and twenty-nine of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and eighty-eight, as amended by section one of chapter three hundred and forty-one of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and ninety, is hereby amended by striking out, in the first and second lines, the words "associations or societies", and adding to the section at the end thereof the following:— . . . The transaction of the business defined in this act, by any corporation, association, partnership or individuals, unless organized or admitted as provided herein, is forbidden.

Since at the time of the passage of the St. 1892, c. 40, the Supreme Lodge was an association and not a corporation, from and after the passage of that act the Supreme Lodge had no right to continue in business in Massachusetts. The right previously existing, of a foreign unincorporated association thus taken away, was never restored. See St. 1894, c. 367, § 10; St. 1898, c. 474, § 13; St. 1899, c. 442, § 18; St. 1901, c. 422, § 18; R. L., c. 119, § 13.

Since St. 1892, c. 40, destroyed the right of such an association to continue in business in Massachusetts without being admitted according to law, I advise you that you have no authority to admit the Supreme Lodge to Massachusetts now unless it shall appear that it has adopted and has in force mortuary assessment rates which are not lower than those indicated as necessary by the National Fraternal Congress Mortality Tables. It becomes necessary, therefore, to consider whether its mortuary assessment rates are high enough.

Taking the National Fraternal Congress Mortality Tables and interest at four per cent. which is the same rate used by the Fraternal Congress and by this company in its computations, I find that the level premium required at age twenty is $10.57; that is, one entering the company at age twenty must pay $10.57 at the beginning of each year in order that the company may have on hand $1,000 with which to pay his benefit certificate when he dies at the time appointed in the mortality table. A portion of this premium goes the first year for current insurance, a larger portion for reserve. To illustrate: suppose one thousand enter at age twenty and remain until death; during the first year a small proportion of them will die; enough money is taken from the premiums of those who live to make up in addition to the premiums received from those who die the amount of those losses; the balance goes to reserve. The next year more of each premium goes to pay current mortality and less to reserve. After many years all the annual premiums will be required to pay the increasing death losses, and, in addition, sums must be taken from the reserve. Finally, the last man of the one thousand dying, there will be exactly $1,000 left of the reserve to pay his certificate. Obviously, the accumulation of a reserve is necessary to keep the company solvent. Under the section of the statute which I am considering (§ 13), a company must "have in force" rates which are not lower than those indicated as "necessary" by these tables. Necessary for what? This can only mean necessary for keeping the company in a condition of solvency so that it may meet the losses, assuming that members will die as fast as and no faster than the tables predict. This phrase inevitably implies that the rates must be sufficient to produce a sufficient reserve if the members die according to the mortality rate of the tables. These rates, moreover, must be kept in force. The company must collect them.

It has been suggested that the statute does not require a fraternal corporation to collect any reserve, that it may continue, since the enactment of this provision (St. 1901, c. 422, § 18), as before to assess merely for current mortality, the effect of this provision being simply to set a maximum limit upon the assessments which it may call, and my attention is called to the earlier requirement codified in the same statute as section 7, that such company may collect, in addition to a death fund amounting to three assessments on all the members, an emergency fund not exceeding at any time five per cent. of the aggregate face value of its outstanding certificates. In brief, one section of the chapter, the earlier in original enactment, limits the death fund arbitrarily to a percentage of the face value of the certificates in force, while another section, later in enactment, requires, by its necessary construction, that a death fund be accumulated by a company organized or admitted subsequent to May 23, 1901, large enough to keep the company mathematically solvent, according to the National Fraternal Congress Tables. This being a flat contradiction, I advise that the earlier arbitrary limit of section 7 must yield to the later scientific adjustment of the rates in section 13, and can be applied only to companies organized or admitted before that date.

The annual level premium which a company must collect and hold for death claims at age twenty is, then, $10.57. This increases each year, until at age fifty-five it is $40.83.

What are the rates of the Supreme Lodge, Ancient Order of United Workmen, throughout these ages? At age twenty the rate is said to be $12.60, leaving out of sight the guaranty fund which will be discussed later. At age fifty-five it is said to be $50.40, and at each intermediate age the rate is said to be greater than the corresponding rate required by the National Fraternal Congress Tables.

But the rates, thus arranged in parallel columns, —

	N. F. C.	A. O. U. W.
Age 20,	$10 57	$12 60
Age 21,	10 87	12 96
Age 55,	40 83	50 40
Age 59,	50 47	50 40

are not really parallel; they do not stand for the same thing respectively; $10.57 in the National Fraternal Congress column means that $10.57 is paid in advance to the company as a yearly premium; $12.60 in the Ancient Order of United Workmen column means that, if the company sees fit to collect twelve monthly assessments of $1.05 each, it will have taken from the member during the year $12.60. But, in fact, the Ancient Order of United Workmen collects only eight or nine of the monthly assessments, so that the rate which it enforces is less than the National Fraternal Congress rate.

It seeks to justify this failure to collect rates equal to those inicated as necessary by the National Fraternal Congress Mortality Tables by pointing out that it gives its members the benefit of the company's gain in mortality over that of the tables by assessing only enough to cover the reserve element of the annual premium and the actual mortality of the year. Instead of collecting the whole premium and returning to each member his share of the company's gain from vitality, in the form of a dividend, as mutual old line companies are supposed to do, it declares a dividend to its members by failing to assess them for more than is actually needed, in addition to the reserve.

There is no authority in the fraternal law for paying dividends to members in any mode. Formerly, such corporation would assess only from hand to mouth, relying on "new blood" to support the business. The inevitable result was the freezing out of old members or insolvency, — often both. There was no occasion for dividends and none were authorized. Indeed, there is an express provision that the whole benefit fund shall be used only for the payment of death and disability benefits (§ 7). Now, a new company or a newly admitted company is required to have in force rates based on these mortality tables. In order to give members the benefit of a gain in actual over predicted mortality, that provision of section 7 must be changed by legislation.

A similar criticism applies to the classified rates of the Supreme Lodge, under which members are insured on the renewable term plan, instead of the level plan, paying a higher rate during each successive term of five years until they reach the age of thirty-five, when, if they remain in the order, they are required to pay the level rate of $50.40 thereafter. Under this system a man of twenty pays a maximum of $6 in assessments during the year; a man of fifty-four a maximum of $18; a man of fifty-five a maximum of $50.40. While these amounts are higher than the National Fraternal Congress rates for the corresponding ages, they are not rates which are enforced.

Thus far, I have discussed only the rates up to age fifty-five. Thereafter the so-called rate of the Supreme Lodge continues $50.40 until the end of the table, while the rate required by the National Fraternal Congress Mortality Tables increases with rapidity; so that while one who enters at sixty must pay a level rate of $58.34, one entering at sixty-five must pay $72.32, and at seventy $97.91.

The company argues that this makes no difference since it has in force a by-law prohibiting the admission of members above the age of fifty-five. But the members who are insured by the company are at present of all ages, and only a few of them since their entry into the order have paid the rates necessary to keep the order solvent under the National Fraternal Congress Tables. That the rates may be not lower than those indicated as necessary by the tables, each member must pay in from the time the law takes effect enough to create the reserve required to carry out his contract of insurance. It is not sufficient that the company makes its rates high enough for those it admits for the future, while carrying old men whose present rates are not high enough to insure the fulfilment of their contracts. At the time of changing from the old way to the new the company must treat those who entered under the old-fashioned system and have paid only for their current insurance as new members, and charge them the rates suitable to their ages when the change is made. Those members are like persons insured in an old line company, who carry yearly renewable term insurance whereby they pay each year the current cost of insurance; at any given time they must pay the rate of attained age, not the rate of age of entry. Whether they are given in exchange a step-rate or a level rate, it must be that applicable to their attained age.

If at and since the age of entry the members had been paying National Fraternal Congress rates, there would of course be no occasion for raising their rates now. But as they have only been paying current insurance they must begin paying the National Fraternal Congress rates fitting the ages which they have attained at the time the law goes into effect upon the company.

I advise you, therefore, that even were the company to begin now to collect rates equal to the National Fraternal Congress rates from all members below the age of fifty-nine, the age when the National Fraternal Congress rate begins to exceed the so-called Ancient Order of United Workmen rate, it could not be admitted to do such business in this Commonwealth.

In this connection should be noted the contention of the Supreme Lodge that its "guaranty fund" obviates the need of collecting from all members the necessary rates. The company has calculated the deficiency arising from the cause just discussed, and has established to meet it an additional rate which it assesses upon the members under the age of fifty-five. At the time of each assessment of the beneficiary rate it makes an additional assessment which goes to the guaranty fund. The present value of the guaranty assessments which may be laid, if all the members stay in the order and pay them, is said to be in excess of the present value of the deficiencies. Thus the company increases the premiums of the young to make up for the lack of sufficient premiums from the old.

The efficacy of this method depends upon the persistence of those who are to pay the extra rates. Its object will be defeated by the lapsing of members under the age of fifty-five. Obviously, the persistent members will be those whose rates are paid in part by others, while those who are expected to bear their brothers' burdens may not remain and "cheerfully pay," as the company suggests that they are doing at present. This method is therefore open to the same objections as the old-fashioned method of collecting a dollar all around when a member dies; it depends for success upon the constant support of young men.

I advise you that collection of rates from one class of members to pay the cost of insuring another class is not equivalent to the enforcement of rates not lower than those indicated as necessary by the National Fraternal Congress Mortality Tables.

The problem of adjusting the finances of an existing fraternal company so that it may have a reasonable chance of keeping out of the hands of a receiver, it having members of all ages, of whom the older ones cannot be expected to pay according to their attained ages, is, indeed, difficult. It is a problem which the Legislature has not attempted to solve for the companies now doing business in Massachusetts. But in this statute it has shown its determination that the problem be not increased in size by admitting to do business here foreign companies which are not on their own feet, whose members are not paying, each for himself, rates which are adequate to keep their insurance good according to the mortality rate assumed in the National Fraternal Congress Tables.

Statute — Construction of General and Particular — Regulation of Fisheries in Swan Pond River.

St. 1895, c. 203, § 1, authorizing the selectmen of the town of Dennis to "prescribe the times, places and manner of taking herring or alewives, perch, salmon, eels and trout in Swan Pond River" and certain tributaries thereof, does not vest in the selectmen of Dennis any power to make rules or regulations which are inconsistent with the general statutes relating to fisheries, whether or not such statutes were enacted after the passage of St. 1895, c. 203.

JULY 29, 1904.

HON. J. W. COLLINS, Chairman, Commissioners on Fisheries and Game

DEAR SIR: — You desire my opinion upon the question whether St. 1895, c. 203, entitled "An Act to regulate the fisheries in Swan Pond River," and providing that the selectmen of the town of Dennis may prescribe the times, places and manner of taking herring or alewives, perch, salmon, eels and trout in Swan Pond

River, permits the selectmen to authorize the use of implements for taking such fish forbidden by the general laws.

St. 1904, c. 308, provides : —

Whoever draws, sets, stretches or uses a drag net, set net, purse net, seine or trawl, or whoever sets or uses more than ten hooks for fishing, in any pond, or aids in so doing, shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty nor more than fifty dollars. The provisions of this section shall not affect the rights of riparian proprietors of ponds mentioned in section twenty-three or the corporate rights of any fishing company.

St. 1895, c. 203, § 1, is as follows : —

The selectmen of the town of Dennis, or a majority of them, shall annually, on or before the twentieth day of April in each year, prescribe the times, places and manner of taking herring or alewives, perch, salmon, eels and trout in Swan Pond river, at the mouth thereof or in the ponds and streams connected therewith, and they may appoint some suitable person or persons to take the same, and shall fix the compensation to be paid therefor ; or may grant permits to suitable persons, being inhabitants of said town, to catch any of said fish in the said river or the ponds and streams connected therewith, and fix the compensation to be paid to said town for such permits, and shall determine the quantity of said fish which each family in said town shall receive from such catches, and establish the price therefor ; and may sell, at auction or otherwise, the right of fishing in said river and its waters to one or more persons, for a term of not more than five years at one sale, upon such terms and conditions as the said town or said selectmen may direct : provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent any person, being an inhabitant of said town, from taking fish with natural or artificially baited hook and hand line, under such regulations as said selectmen may prescribe.

Section 4 provides the penalty for taking fish in the designated waters “ at any time or place or in any manner other than may be allowed by said selectmen.”

Section 5 provides that if any boat, vessel or craft is found with more fish on board than is allowed by the selectmen, “ or if any person or persons with any such boat, vessel or craft, shall be detected in taking or in attempting to take any of said fish in any manner different from that prescribed by said selectmen or with seines, nets or with other instrument of a kind different from that established by said selectmen,” the selectmen may seize the vessel in order that it may be attached and made answerable for the fines. The selectmen of Dennis allege that under this statute they are exempted from the operation of all general laws regulating fishing throughout the Commonwealth.

I am of opinion that chapter 203 of the Acts of 1895 did not vest in the selectmen of the town of Dennis any absolute or irrevocable authority with relation to the fisheries, nor authorize the making of rules and regulations in contravention of the general laws governing fisheries throughout the Commonwealth.

Under the present law it appears that the use of seines or nets in ponds is throughout the Commonwealth illegal and forbidden, and it cannot be that the selectmen of Dennis may, under any assumed authority of the act of 1895 above stated, authorize fishing in a manner prohibited by the Revised Laws in the waters of Swan Pond River, if such waters are in fact within the prohibition of that law. The special power given to the selectmen goes no further than to permit them to make such local rules and regulations as are not inconsistent with the general statutes, and the Legislature in enacting the special law did not intend to then or thenceforward divest itself of authority over the waters specified in the act; on the contrary, I am of opinion that it was contemplated that further legislation might be had without control or limitation by reason of the special act.

It would follow, in my opinion, that subsequent legislation applicable to the subject-matter would regulate, modify or control the provisions of the earlier statute, and the authority of the town thereafter could be executed only within and consistently with such general laws as should be from time to time in effect. The rights conferred by St. 1895, c. 203, are not abrogated in their entirety by the provisions of the Revised Laws, but the authority under the earlier act must be subject to the provisions of the general laws.

Very truly yours,

HERBERT PARKER, Attorney-General.

State Board of Publication — Statistics — Approval of Publication.

Statistics, or figures, specifically required by law to be set forth and published in the reports of officers or heads of departments of the Commonwealth are not subject to the jurisdiction of the State Board of Publication as defined by St. 1904, c. 388, § 2, which provides that boards, commissions and heads of departments shall not incorporate any statistics into the documents relating to their several departments without first securing the approval of such Board.

SEPT. 21, 1904.

WILLIAM N. DAVENPORT, Esq., Secretary, State Board of Publication.

DEAR SIR:—The State Board of Publication in substance desires to know whether specific statistics required to be set forth and published in the reports of officials or departments of the Commonwealth, under the provisions of general or special laws, are now within the supervisory jurisdiction of the State Board of Publication as defined by section 2 of chapter 388 of the Acts of 1904, which section is as follows: —

Boards, commissions and heads of departments having charge of preparing and printing documents relating to their various departments shall not incorporate therein any statistics unless the same shall be approved by the state board of publication.

I am of opinion that this section must be restricted in its application to those statistics which are not specifically required by legislation to be embodied in the report under consideration. And I am further of opinion that where there is a specific statutory requirement for the publication in the report of any commission or official of particular statistics, such statistics must be published, and the duty of publication is imposed upon the official or commission by statute. In my judgment the statute of 1904 above referred to cannot and ought not to be so construed as by indirection to modify, alter or remove a specific official duty imposed by law upon any officer or servant of the Commonwealth.

It seems to me, therefore, perfectly clear that the jurisdiction of the Board of Publication does not extend so far as to authorize or permit that board to restrict or prohibit the publication of specific statistics required by pre-existing law. If the Board of Publication have any jurisdiction in such premises, it must be limited to an examination of such statistics, and to the determination whether or not they comply with the provisions of law relating thereto. The Board might, if it appeared that the statistics offered for publication exceeded the legal requirement, reduce them to the limit of such requirement, but it is indeed doubtful whether even this power is vested in the Board of Publication, since their authority in general is supervisory and clearly not intended to limit or control those publications which the law has otherwise specifically required.

Very truly yours,

HERBERT PARKER, Attorney-General.

Clerk of the Courts — Vacancy — Clerk of the Superior Court for the County of Suffolk.

The phrase "clerk of the courts" in R. L., c. 11, § 277, which provides that in case of a vacancy in the office of clerk of the courts the Governor shall cause precepts to be issued for an election to fill such vacancy at the next annual State election for which precepts can be seasonably issued, extends to and includes the office of clerk of the Superior Court for the county of Suffolk, and it is therefore the duty of the Governor, upon proper representation that a vacancy in such office exists, to issue his precept for an election to fill such vacancy at the next annual State election for which such precept may be seasonably issued.

SEPT. 27, 1904.

His Excellency JOHN L. BATES, Governor.

SIR:— I have the honor to acknowledge Your Excellency's communication under date of Sept. 12, 1904, in which you advise me that you are informed that the Secretary of the Commonwealth has received official notification from the Superior Court for the county of Suffolk of the death of Clerk Joseph A. Willard, and that, in accordance with the statute, an appointment has been made by the judges to fill the vacancy. You further instruct me that "the question has arisen as to whether or not the appointment made by the judges under the statute is until such time as an election can be held to fill the vacancy under a precept issued by the Governor, or whether the appointee fills the vacancy for the unexpired term for which the late Mr. Willard was elected." Your Excellency further states that you have been requested to issue a precept for an election, and that you desire my opinion as to whether or not under the statute the duty so to do devolves upon you.

It is a fundamental principle that when a vacancy exists in a public office a person appointed to fill that vacancy will, in the absence of express or necessarily implied provisions to the contrary, hold such office during the unexpired term of the original incumbent. The person appointed to the vacancy in the office of clerk of the Superior Court, therefore, will continue in office until the qualification of his successor after the annual State election in 1906, unless the Legislature has otherwise provided. See R. L., c. 11, § 318:—

At the annual state election in the year nineteen hundred and six, and in every fifth year thereafter, a clerk of the supreme judicial court for the county of Suffolk and two clerks of the superior court, one for civil and one for criminal business, shall be chosen by the voters in said county; and, by the voters in each of the other counties, a clerk of the courts who shall act as clerk of the supreme judicial court, of the superior court and of the county commissioners.

Since the adoption in 1855 of the Nineteenth Amendment of the Massachusetts Constitution, by virtue of a law enacted in 1856 (St. 1856, c. 173), clerks of the county courts who, prior to that act had been appointed by the justices, have been elected at the annual State elections for periods of five years. The statute provides for the filling of vacancies, in general, by election at the annual State election following the vacancy. Its present form is as follows (R. L., c. 11, § 277) : —

Upon a failure to choose a district attorney, clerk of the courts, register of probate and insolvency or sheriff, the governor shall cause precepts to be issued to the proper officers, directing them to call meetings of the voters on the day appointed therein, for the election of such officer.

Upon a vacancy by removal or otherwise in any of the above-named offices, he shall in like manner cause precepts to be issued for an election to fill such vacancy at the next annual state election for which precepts can be seasonably issued.

. . . Upon a vacancy in the office of clerk of the courts in any county, or of the clerk of the supreme judicial court in the county of Suffolk, the justices of said court may appoint a clerk who shall hold the office until a clerk is elected and qualified.

Upon a vacancy in the office of a clerk of the superior court in the county of Suffolk, the justices of said court may appoint a clerk.

The first question is, whether in the last two clauses of this section a distinction is made in the manner of filling the vacancy in the office of the clerk of the Superior Court and the manner of filling a vacancy in the office of clerk of the Supreme Judicial Court in Suffolk County. This part of the section appears in the Public Statutes as follows (P. S., c. 159, § 7) : —

If a vacancy occurs in the office of clerk of the courts in any county, or of the clerk of the supreme judicial court in the county of Suffolk, the justices of said court or a majority of them may appoint a clerk, who shall hold the office until the next annual election, or until another is elected or appointed in his stead. Upon a vacancy in the county of Suffolk in the office of a clerk of the superior court, the justices of that court shall in like manner appoint a clerk for a similar term.

In my opinion there is no intention manifested in the compilation of this statute into the section of the Revised Laws above quoted to change the provisions of the Public Statutes. A vacancy in the office of a clerk of the Superior Court is to be filled in the same manner as a vacancy in the office of clerk of the Supreme Judicial Court in Suffolk County. See also St. 1890, c. 423, §§ 190, 250; St. 1893, c. 417, § 218; St. 1898, c. 548, § 315.

The remaining question is, whether the clerk of the Superior Court of Suffolk County for civil business is a "clerk of the courts," within the fair meaning of this statute. If not, there is no authority for issuing a precept for an election to fill a vacancy in his office, and the vacancy must be filled at the next quinquennial election.

In each county other than Suffolk there is one officer who is clerk of both the Supreme Judicial Court and the Superior Court. He has always been designated as "clerk of the courts." In Suffolk County there are three clerks, one for each of the three county courts; each is clerk of one of the courts and is a clerk of the courts; no one of them is, to speak with the utmost strictness, "clerk of the courts."

It may be argued that the Legislature has distinguished between the ancient and well-defined office of "clerk of the courts" and the special offices in Suffolk County of more restricted jurisdiction and authority, namely, the clerk of the Supreme Judicial Court and the two clerks, the one upon the civil and the other upon the criminal side of the Superior Court; that in the former case a specific provision has been made for a special election, while in the latter case such specific provision has been omitted.

Since, however, the phraseology of the Revised Laws is open to different meanings, and no reason can be suggested why the Legislature should have intended such a distinction in the manner of filling vacancies in Suffolk County, it is proper to trace the history of this statute, in order to discover what the intention of the Legislature is.

Throughout the several codifications of the statute, including the General Statutes of 1860, the same ambiguity of language is present, but in the original enactment of 1856 the meaning is clear that a vacancy in Suffolk County is to be filled exactly as in the other counties.

St. 1856, c. 173 : —

SECT. 2. At the annual election in November, in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-six, and at the annual election in November of every fifth year thereafter, the legal voters of the several cities and towns in each county, excepting in the county of Suffolk, shall choose by ballot for their respective counties, a clerk, who shall act as clerk of the supreme judicial court, and the court of common pleas, within and for the county for which he shall be chosen; and at the same time the legal voters of the county of Suffolk shall choose by ballot for said county of Suffolk, a clerk of the supreme judicial court, a clerk of the superior court, and a clerk of the municipal court of said county.

SECT. 9. In case a vacancy shall, from any cause, occur in the office of any of the clerks of courts hereinbefore mentioned, the judges of the said several courts, or a majority of the same, may appoint a suitable person to fill such office, who shall hold the same until the annual election in November next thereafter, or until another is chosen or appointed in his stead; and at said annual election next thereafter, an election by ballot shall be had, to fill said office for such unexpired term as may exist, in the same manner as is hereinbefore provided for the election of said clerks.

These sections, together with the amendment of St. 1859, c. 196, § 9, making a civil and a criminal division of the Superior Court in Suffolk County, were codified in the General Statutes of 1850, as follows (Gen. St., c. 10):—

SECT. 8. In the year eighteen hundred and sixty-one and every fifth year thereafter, there shall be elected by the voters in the county of Suffolk, a clerk of the supreme judicial court for said county, and two clerks of the superior court for said county, one for the civil, and one for the criminal, business, and by the voters in each of the other counties a clerk of the courts for the county, who shall act as clerk of the supreme judicial court, the superior court, and the county commissioners. Such clerks shall hold their offices for five years from the first Wednesday of January following their election, unless sooner removed as provided by law.

SECT. 10. If on the days aforesaid there is a failure to elect a district-attorney, clerk of the courts, register of probate and insolvency, sheriff, or commissioner of insolvency, in any district or county, the governor shall by proclamation declare such failure and order a new election to be had on such day as he shall appoint, and shall continue so to order such elections until a choice is effected.

SECT. 13. If a person elected to either of the offices mentioned in section ten is removed therefrom, or otherwise vacates the same, an election to fill such office for the remainder of his term shall be ordered by the governor, and shall be had on the Tuesday next after the first Monday of November.

The difficulty arises from the fact that section 13 refers to a vacancy in one of the offices mentioned in section 10, in which the phrase is "clerk of the courts," instead of section 8, which enumerates specifically the three clerks in Suffolk County as well as the clerks in the other counties. This reference to a vacancy in the office of a clerk of the courts was not, in my opinion, an intentional exclusion of the clerks of the Suffolk County courts. By using the general phrase "clerk of the courts" the compilers do not intend thus to change the provisions of the statute of 1856. My opinion is strengthened by the fact that the commissioners who compiled this revision, in their note upon this chapter, commented upon a change which they made in section 13, and were silent as to any alteration of meaning in this respect.

Their note is as follows:—

Sect. 13. The act of 1856, chapter 173, provides for appointments to fill vacancies, and that the persons appointed shall hold until the annual election in November next thereafter, or until another is chosen or appointed. It then provides that an election shall be had to fill the vacancy at "the said annual election thereafter." As a vacancy may occur so near the time of the annual election that it would not generally be known, the commissioners have provided that the vacancy shall be filled at the time of the annual election without confining it to the next one, and that warrants therefor shall be issued.

I therefore advise Your Excellency that it is your duty, under the statutes, to cause a precept to be issued for an election to fill this vacancy at the next annual State election for which such precept can be seasonably issued.

I am, with great respect,
Very truly yours,

HERBERT PARKER, Attorney-General.

Marine Insurance — Automobile.

An automobile may, within the provisions of R. L., c. 118, § 29, be insured against the perils of the sea and other perils usually insured against by marine insurance, including risks of inland navigation and transportation, whether such automobile is being transported upon a railroad car or a vessel, or upon its own wheels.

Oct. 8, 1904.

HON. FREDERICK L. CUTTING, Insurance Commissioner.

DEAR SIR: — Your letter of August 24 requests my opinion whether an insurance company, domestic or foreign, authorized to transact the business of marine insurance in this Commonwealth, may issue a policy of insurance on an automobile, under a marine form of policy instead of on the Massachusetts standard form of fire insurance policy.

Section 29, chapter 118 of the Revised Laws provides that a company duly authorized to transact the business of marine insurance may "insure upon the stock or mutual plan vessels, freights, goods, money, effects, and money lent on bottomry, or respondentia, against the perils of the sea and other perils usually insured against by marine insurance, including risks of inland navigation and transportation."

The Legislature has prescribed no standard form of marine insurance policy. The form used by the company in question provides as follows: —

Touching the adventure and perils which the said company is contented to bear and take upon itself in this voyage, they are of the seas, — fire, barratry of the master (unless the insured be an owner of the vessel) and of the mariners, and all other losses and misfortunes which have or shall come to the damage of the said property or any part thereof, to which insurers are liable by the rules and customs of insurance in Boston, subject to the conditions and provisions contained or referred to by clauses in this policy.

To the marine form of policy is attached a rider insuring the automobile within the limits of the United States, including while in building, on road, ferry or inland steamer, or on a coastwise steamer bound from a United States port to a United States port, covering loss or damage to the automobile caused by fire, also covering, while on board railroad cars, against the risk of fire and derailment of the cars only, and while on board steamers against marine perils only (including fire).

I am of opinion that an automobile may be thus insured against the perils of the sea and other perils usually insured against by marine insurance, including risks of inland navigation and transportation, whether the automobile is being transported upon a railroad car, a vessel, or upon its own wheels.

Very truly yours,

HERBERT PARKER, Attorney-General.

Charles River Basin Commission — Removal of Craigie Bridge — Taking.

Under the provisions of St. 1903, c. 465, providing that the Charles River dam, the construction of which is authorized thereby, "shall occupy substantially the site of the present Craigie bridge, which shall be removed by the commission," the Charles River Basin Commission is not required to make a taking of the existing bridge before proceeding with its removal.

OCT. 8, 1904.

HON. HENRY S. PRITCHETT, Chairman, Charles River Basin Commission.

DEAR SIR:— Your letter of September 23 requests my opinion as to whether or not it will be necessary for you to make a taking of Craigie bridge across the Charles River in order to carry out the work which you are authorized to do by St. 1903, c. 465. Section 3 of that act provides that the Charles River dam "shall occupy substantially the site of the present Craigie bridge, which shall be removed by the commission." Craigie bridge is a portion of the public highway, and as it now exists was built by commissioners under St. 1873, c. 199, the expense thereof being paid equally by the cities of Boston and Cambridge. The expense of maintenance is also shared equally by those cities. St. 1898, c. 467, § 14.

St. 1903, c. 465, § 3, provides that the Charles River dam shall not be less than one hundred feet in width at water level, and " a part thereof shall be a highway and the remainder thereof shall be a highway, or park or parkway, as the commission shall determine. . . . The part of the dam used as a highway shall be maintained and operated in the same manner as the Cambridge bridge, and under the laws now or hereafter in force relating to said bridge." In other words, the part of the dam used as a highway is to be maintained and operated by a board of two commissioners, one appointed by the mayor of the city of Boston and one by the mayor of the city of Cambridge, exactly as the present Craigie bridge is maintained and operated under St. 1898, c. 467, § 14. By the act of 1903 the Legislature temporarily took the control of Craigie bridge out of the hands of the board of bridge commissioners and gave it into the hands of your commission, for the purpose of removing it and of building a new bridge in its place. By section 9 the expense of that work will be borne by the two cities, and the control over the new bridge, when you have finished it, will be vested in the board of bridge commissioners. A similar plan was adopted for rebuilding the West Boston bridge by St. 1898, c. 467. The rights of the two cities are the same as though the Legislature had authorized the board of commissioners having control of the bridge to rebuild it at the expense of the cities, in which case no taking would be necessary. The present structure was built in that way, and the constitutionality of legislation of that character has been for a long time recognized. Carter v. Cambridge & Brookline Bridge Proprietors, 104 Mass. 286.

I am of opinion, therefore, that your commission should not make a taking of the present Craigie bridge, but should proceed to remove it and rebuild the highway across the river in accordance with the provisions of your enabling act.

Very truly yours,

HERBERT PARKER, Attorney-General.

Domestic Animals — Contagious Diseases of Cattle — Cattle Bureau.

The powers vested under the provisions of R. L., c. 90, as amended by St. 1902, c. 116, in the officers of the Cattle Bureau with relation to contagious diseases of cattle are not to be extended by implication to contagious diseases other than those enumerated in R. L., c. 90, § 4.

OCT. 10, 1904.

AUSTIN PETERS, Esq., Chief of the Cattle Bureau.

DEAR SIR: — Your letter of July 19 calls for my opinion upon the question whether a disease of the eye, known as enzootic ophthalm- mia, which has attacked certain cattle in the town of Westborough, is a contagious disease within the meaning of the definition of that term contained in R. L., c. 90, § 4. The disease in question is stated to be apparently contagious but not dangerous to the animals attacked by it, or to the health of persons who may be brought into contact with it. Upon these facts you inquire specifically whether there is any legal authority in the chapter above referred to, as amended by St. 1902, c. 116, § 3, for isolating and forbidding the sale of animals from herds where such disease exists, until the danger of contagion is over.

Assuming that the disease in question is in no respect dangerous to mankind, I am of opinion that you have no jurisdiction in the premises. The evident purpose of the statute was to protect and preserve the health of persons purchasing the several products derived from domestic cattle; and it was not intended to relieve the owner of cattle from the responsibility of their care and maintenance or to preserve the health of the cattle themselves. The diseases specifically enumerated in section 28 of chapter 90 of the Revised Laws appear to be contagious diseases which affect the products derived from cattle, either milk or meat, and through them the health and safety of the persons by whom they are consumed. The powers vested in the officers of the Cattle Bureau, in the case of the contagious diseases enumerated in the statute, are very broad, and for that reason are not, in my opinion, to be extended by implication to diseases other than those specifically mentioned in section 28.

Very truly yours,

HERBERT PARKER, Attorney-General.

Person infected with Contagious Disease — Transportation beyond the Borders of the Commonwealth for Care and Treatment.

There is no existing provision of law by virtue of which a person found within this Commonwealth suffering with a contagious or infectious disease may, without his consent, be transported beyond the borders of the Commonwealth, to be there confined and treated for such disease.

Oct. 14, 1904.

LEONARD HUNTRESS, M.D., Trustee, State Hospital and State Farm.

DEAR SIR:— You seek my opinion in behalf of your Board by an inquiry as follows: Whether under any existing law of the Commonwealth there is authority by virtue of which a person found within this Commonwealth suffering with a contagious or infectious disease known as leprosy may be transported, without his consent, beyond the borders of this Commonwealth, to be there confined and treated for such disease.

There is no provision of statute which in terms authorizes such transportation, confinement and treatment. R. L., c. 85, §§ 23 and 24, provide for the transportation of paupers to any other State, or to any place beyond the sea "where they belong." This, however, is a different matter from the deportation for the purpose of confinement and treatment, under the control of officers of this Commonwealth.

R. L., c. 75, § 46, as amended by Acts of 1902, c. 206, § 2, provides for the removal of persons infected with contagious disease in the following language:—

A magistrate authorized to issue warrants in criminal cases may issue a warrant directed to the sheriff of the county or his deputy, or to any constable or police officer, requiring them under the direction of the board to remove any person who is infected with contagious disease, or to impress and take up convenient houses, lodging, nurses, attendants and other necessaries. The removal authorized by this section may be made to any hospital in an adjoining city or town established for the reception of persons having smallpox or other disease dangerous to the public health, provided the assent of the board of health of the city or town to which such removal is to be made shall first have been obtained.

Control over inmates of the State Hospital is conferred upon the trustees of such hospital by R. L., c. 85, § 18.

The trustees of the state hospital shall have and exercise the same powers relative to pauper inmates and their property as towns and overseers of the poor have relative to paupers supported or relieved by them.

The power of overseers of the poor relative to the relief and support of paupers is fixed in part by R. L., c. 81, § 2.

The overseers of the poor shall have the care and oversight of all such poor and indigent persons so long as they remain at the charge of their respective cities or towns, and shall see that they are suitably relieved, supported and employed, either in the workhouse or almshouse, or in such other manner as the city or town directs, or otherwise at the discretion of said overseers. They may remove to the almshouse such children as are suffering destitution from extreme neglect of dissolute or intemperate parents or guardians, except as hereinafter provided.

This statute does not give overseers of the poor power to remove from the Commonwealth paupers having settlements in the Commonwealth without their consent (Westfield v. Southwick, 17 Pick. 68; Deerfield v. Greenfield, 1 Gray, 514; see also Smith v. Peabody, 106 Mass. 262), and the same limitation must attach to the powers of the trustees of the State Hospital.

There is, moreover, one general principle of interpretation which disposes of the whole question. In the absence of express words, or distinct implications, the presumption is that statutes have no extraterritorial effect. And this is true even in those cases where it would be in the power of the Legislature to give to statutes such an effect.

As to whether it would be in the power of the Legislature to provide for the removal from the Commonwealth, and the confinement and treatment without the Commonwealth, of a person afflicted with leprosy, who is unwilling to be removed, I express no opinion. It appears, however, that neither by express words nor by distinct implication do the statutes above quoted authorize such removal, confinement and treatment, and that consequently, according to the principles stated, the field for the exercise of the powers conferred is limited by the territorial boundaries of the Commonwealth.

Very truly yours,

HERBERT PARKER, Attorney-General.

Insurance — Fire Insurance — Massachusetts Standard Policy — Modification — “Riders” — “Binding Slips” — Insurance Commissioner — Duties.

R. L., c. 118, § 60, does not forbid the making of a special contract inconsistent with the terms of the standard form of fire insurance policy therein contained, and in clause 7 expressly provides for such modification of the standard form as the parties themselves may choose to make; it follows, therefore, that a separate slip or “rider,” complying with the provisions of statute applicable thereto, may provide for cancellation upon less than the ten days' notice required by the standard form.

A fire insurance company is not required to make temporary insurance by means of “binding slips,” by which an agent is authorized to cover property with insurance from the moment of application until the applicant either receives his policy or is notified of the rejection of his risk, and such insurance may be terminated in any manner agreed upon by the parties.

The Insurance Commissioner is not required to pass upon or consider questions relating to the form or contents of the “binding slips” above mentioned.

OCT. 31, 1904.

HON. FREDERICK L. CUTTING, Insurance Commissioner.

DEAR SIR: — In your letter of September 14 you ask various questions as to the right of a fire insurance company doing business in Massachusetts to provide for the cancellation of its contracts of insurance upon Massachusetts property, in a manner other than that prescribed by the standard form of policy contained in section 60 of chapter 118 of the Revised Laws.

No fire insurance company shall issue fire insurance policies on property in this commonwealth, other than those of the standard form herein set forth, except as follows :

Seventh, A company may write upon the margin or across the face of a policy, or write, or print in type not smaller than long primer, upon separate slips or riders to be attached thereto, provisions adding to or modifying those contained in the standard form; and all such slips, riders and provisions must be signed by the officers or agent of the company so using them.

The language of the standard form in respect to cancellation is as follows :—

This policy may be cancelled at any time at the request of the insured, who shall thereupon be entitled to a return of the portion of the above premium remaining, after deducting the customary monthly short rates for the time this policy shall have been in force. The company also reserves the right, after giving written notice to the insured, and to any mortgagee to whom this policy is made payable, and tendering to the insured a ratable proportion of the premium, to cancel this policy as to all risks subsequent to the expiration of ten days from such notice, and no mortgagee shall then have the right to recover as to such risks.

You ask : “ Would it be lawful for a company to avail itself of the privilege granted by the ‘ Seventh ’ clause of section 60, chapter 118 of the Revised Laws, by using ‘ separate slips or riders ’ amending the time allowed for the cancellation of a policy to a shorter period than the stated ‘ ten days ’ ? ”

The Legislature has not attempted to make the provisions of the standard form compulsory upon insurer or insured, nor to make such form the sole permissible form of contract. Section 60, above quoted, does not forbid the making of a special contract embodying terms inconsistent with the terms contained in the standard form; indeed, it provides for such modifications of the standard form as the parties may choose to make (clause Seventh, quoted above). The apparent purpose of the Legislature was to establish an approved form of contract upon which the insured might confidently rely without the necessity of considering special stipulations which might be obscure or of doubtful import as to the obligations or limitations of the contract. I answer the above question, therefore, in the affirmative. A rider complying with the provisions of the statute relating thereto may permit of a cancellation upon less than the ten days' notice required by the standard form.

Your remaining questions refer to the "binding slips" used by fire insurance companies, by means of which the agent is authorized to cover property with insurance from the moment of application until the company accepts the risk and issues a policy, or rejects the risk and notifies the applicant of its rejection. You ask in varying forms whether such temporary insurance may be terminated by less than ten days' notice to the applicant.

"If a binder is issued or given by an authorized company or agent, which binder stipulates that it may be cancelled or revoked by the party issuing or granting the same, at a less time than the 'ten days' fixed by law, would such act constitute a violation of law, or, if not an actual violation, would the company have a legal right to abrogate or abridge the legal rights which are secured to the insured by the enactment or conditions of the 'standard' form of policy?"

"Could a binder as described as above be considered as legal, provided the ten days' allowance be waived by the agreement of both parties, assurer and assured?"

The universal custom of covering property while the insurance company is determining whether to issue a policy or not is convenient, and, indeed, a practical necessity in business, but no law compels the company to make this preliminary agreement, and if it be made, no law prescribes what its terms must be. It is not even required to be in writing. Since there is no legal obligation upon the company to make temporary insurance even for a moment, the company may "bind" such insurance for as long or as short a time as the parties may agree upon. You have, therefore, no duty to see to the form of these binding slips.

I answer your questions, specifically, as follows: The act of giving a binding slip, providing that the temporary contract evidenced by it may be terminated by notice within less than ten days, is not a violation of law. The law, as I have stated above, does not forbid the making of terms inconsistent with those of the standard policy.

I next consider the following question: "Does the giving of a parole agreement, or the issuance of a binder, constitute, theoretically at least, a contract, to be governed by the terms and agreements as fixed by the 'standard form of policy' herein referred to?"

If the binding slip does not provide for its own termination, the question whether the insurance contract evidenced by it may be cancelled on reasonable notice, or whether, since the applicant and the company have made no inconsistent agreements, his property is insured pending the issuance of the policy according to the terms of the standard form, is one of great interest, upon which the decisions are not in accord. See Lipman v. Niagara Fire Ins. Co., 121 N. Y. 454; Karelsen v. Sun Fire Office, 122 N. Y. 545; Hicks v. British Amer. Ass. Co., 162 N. Y. 284; Campbell v. Amer. Fire Ins. Co., 73 Wis. 100; Baile v. St. Joseph F. & M. Ins. Co., 73 Mo. 371; Neb., etc., Ins. Co. v. Seivers, 27 Neb. 541. This interesting question, however, in nowise concerns your official duty.

Lastly: "Can a parole agreement or binder which by its terms fixes the time at which it is to remain in force at a longer term than ten days be cancelled by the company without giving the insured the ten days' notice required by the 'standard form'?"

The question whether a binding slip purporting to cover for thirty days may be cancelled upon notice, and if so, upon what notice, is also one which concerns only the parties to the contract.

Commitment — Person committed to Workhouse — Labor.

The word "commitment," as used in R. L., c. 30, § 21, providing that "every person who has been committed to a workhouse shall, if able to work, be kept diligently employed in labor during the term of his commitment," is to be broadly interpreted, and such provision is applicable not only to persons committed to a workhouse by a court but also to persons placed therein subject to the care and oversight of overseers of the poor, and without a technical commitment.

Nov. 21, 1904.

JOHN D. WELLS, Esq., Clerk, State Board of Charity.

DEAR SIR:— You request the opinion of the Attorney-General as to whether the words "every person who has been committed to a workhouse," in section 21 of chapter 30 of the Revised Laws, apply to all of the several classes of "persons" mentioned in section 1 of the same chapter.

R. L., c. 30, § 1, provides:—

A city or town may erect or provide a workhouse or almshouse for the employment and support of indigent persons maintained by or receiving alms from it; of persons who, being able to work and not having estate or means otherwise to maintain themselves, refuse or neglect to work; of persons who live a dissolute, vagrant life and exercise no ordinary calling or lawful business; of persons who spend their time and property in public houses to the neglect of their proper business or who, by otherwise misspending their earnings, are likely to become chargeable to the city or town; and of other persons sent thereto under any provisions of law.

Section 21 provides :—

Every person who has been committed to a workhouse shall, if able to work, be kept diligently employed in labor during the term of his commitment. If he is idle and does not perform such reasonable task as is assigned, or if he is stubborn and disorderly, he shall be punished according to the orders and regulations established by the directors.

The inmates of workhouses are of two classes: first, those persons who are committed thereto by order of court (R. L., c. 208, § 30; c. 212, §§ 39, 46, 54, 55, 59); second, those who are supported therein as paupers under the care of overseers of the poor, but who have not been committed by an order of court (R. L., c. 81, § 2). Many of the persons enumerated in R. L., c. 30, § 1, above quoted, are included within the second class. It therefore becomes important to determine whether the words "commitment" and "committed," in R. L., c. 30, § 21, are to be interpreted narrowly, as meaning commitment by order of court, for if they are so to be interpreted it follows that certain persons enumerated in R. L., c. 30, § 1, namely, those within the second class above indicated, are exempt from the provisions of section 21.

I am of opinion, however, that the words are not to be so narrowly interpreted. "Commitment" and "committed" do not necessarily have technical meanings. See Cumington v. Wareham, 9 Cush. 585; Commonwealth v. Barker, 133 Mass. 399, and statutes therein construed. In defining them reference may be had to the earlier statutes, for words in an act are to be given the same meaning which they had in earlier acts in pari materia, in the absence of anything to show a contrary intent. Reiche v. Smythe, 13 Wall. 162; Greenleaf v. Goodrich, 101 U. S. 281, semble.

In the section of the original workhouse statute, in which the provisions of R. L., c. 30, § 21, appear, the words "committed" and "commitment" were not used in a technical sense, but were applied to the sending of persons to the workhouse by overseers of the poor.

Province Laws, 1743-44, c. 12, § 11, provided :—

That no town shall be at charge for the support or relief of any person committed to said house, who was not sent thither by the overseers belonging to such town; nor any person orderly committed to it shall be discharged from it but by the overseers by whom he was committed, or by the overseers, at a general meeting, or otherwise by the justices of the court of general sessions of the peace, in the same county, upon application to them made for that purpose; and every person so committed, if fit and able to work, shall be held and kept stric[k]tly and dil[ig]ently [i][e]mployed in labour during his or her abode there; and in case they be idle, and shall not duly perform such task or stint as shall be reasonably assign'd them, or shall be stubborn and disorderly, shall be punish[e]d according to the orders that shall be made for the ruling, governing, and punishing of the persons there to be committed, not repugnant to the laws of this province

The same statute provided that the overseers in any town "be and they are hereby directed and empowered to commit to such house . . . any person or persons . . . that hereafter in this act are declared liable to be sent thither." The persons so declared liable to be sent to the workhouse were enumerated in nearly the same terms as are used in R. L., c. 30, § 1. In Acts of 1788, c. 30, these provisions remained practically the same in form and substance. The revision of the laws in 1836 (R. S., c. 16) changed the form of the statute, and the form at that time adopted has, with minor changes, been retained (G. S., c. 22; P. S., c. 33), though many new provisions relative to commitments to workhouses for misdemeanors have been made.

There is, however, nothing which to my mind sufficiently strongly indicates any other intent as to the meaning of "committed" and "commitment" to rebut the inference from the way in which the words were used in the earlier statutes. The disappearance of the provision authorizing overseers to commit was doubtless due to the fact that it seemed to be unnecessary in view of the provision which was enacted in 1788 and now appears in R. L., c. 81, § 2, giving overseers the power to see that poor and indigent persons "are suitably relieved, supported or employed either in the workhouse or almshouse, or in such other manner as the city or town directs, or otherwise at the discretion of said overseers." The omission of the word "so" ("thus" in St. 1788) before "committed" in St. 1743-44, was required by the change in the form of the statute and by the intention to include within the scope of the provision persons committed under authority of later acts by order of court; but there was nothing in it tending to limit the application of the provision to such persons. The use of the expression "within the time for which he was committed," in the section relating to discharges, and the expression "during the term of his commitment," in the section to be construed, is not inconsistent with a situation where some of the persons referred to are committed for definite, some for indefinite, periods; and the addition of the words "or received," in Gen. St., c. 22, § 17, and later revisions, to the provision requiring the master of each workhouse to keep a register "of the names of the persons committed," was hardly sufficient to impress upon the words "committed" and "commitment," wherever they occur, a technical meaning which they certainly did not have in the early statutes dealing with the same subject.

It seems, therefore, that these words should be broadly interpreted, and consequently that the requirement of diligent employment in labor, in section 21, applies to all persons enumerated in section 1. This conclusion is further supported by the provision of section 16, that cities and towns may provide implements, etc., "for the employment of inmates" of workhouses, and by the provision of section 1, above quoted, that "a city or town may erect or provide a workhouse . . . for the employment . . . of indigent persons."

Very truly yours,

HERBERT PARKER, Attorney-General.

Great Ponds — Sources of Water Supply — Rules and Regulations of State Board of Health — Commissioners of Fisheries and Game — Duty to stock with Food Fish.

Rules and regulations established by the State Board of Health under the provisions of R. L., c. 75, § 113, "to prevent the pollution and to secure the sanitary protection of all such waters as are used as sources of water supply," are police regulations, and, in the case of a great pond so used, will limit and control the right of the public to the use thereof for boating, fishing or other like purposes, so far as such use by the public is inconsistent with the use of such pond as a source of water supply.

Where rules and regulations established by the State Board of Health under the provisions of R. L., c. 75, § 113, relating to a great pond, used as a source of water supply, forbid to the public fishing, boating or bathing therein or taking ice therefrom, the provisions of R. L., c. 91, § 19, directing the Commissioners of Fisheries and Game, upon petition duly made as prescribed, to cause the waters of any great pond to be stocked with food fish, and to make reasonable regulations relative to the fishing therein, is not applicable, and such commissioners are not required to act thereunder.

NOV. 25, 1904.

HON. JOSEPH W. COLLINS, Chairman, Commissioners of Fisheries and Game.

DEAR SIR: — You have required my opinion upon the effect which certain rules and regulations made by the State Board of Health under R. L., c. 75, § 113, may have upon the duty of the fish and game commission, under the provisions of R. L., c. 91, § 19.

R. L., c. 75, § 112, is as follows:—

The state board of health shall have the general oversight and care of all inland waters and of all streams and ponds used by any city, town or public institution or by any water or ice company in this commonwealth as sources of water supply and of all springs, streams and water courses tributary thereto. It shall be provided with maps, plans and documents suitable for such purposes and shall keep records of all its transactions relative thereto.

Section 113 reads:—

Said board may cause examinations of such waters to be made to ascertain their purity and fitness for domestic use or their liability to impair the interests of the public or of persons lawfully using them or to imperil the public health. It may make rules and regulations to prevent the pollution and to secure the sanitary protection, of all such waters as are used as sources of water supply.

R. L., c. 91, § 19, provides that:—

The commissioners, upon the petition of the mayor and aldermen of a city or of the selectmen of a town within which a great pond or a portion thereof is situated, or of thirty or more inhabitants thereof, shall cause the waters of such pond to be stocked with such food fish as they judge to be best suited to such waters. They shall thereupon prescribe, for a period not exceeding three years, such reasonable regulations relative to the fishing in such ponds and their tributaries, with such penalties, not exceeding twenty dollars for one offence, as they deem to be for the public interest, and shall cause such regulations to be enforced. Five hundred dollars shall be annually appropriated by the commonwealth to carry out the provisions of this section.

This section was amended by St. 1903, c. 274, which authorized the commission to restock such ponds with food fish.

The facts submitted in your communication are applicable to North Watuppa Pond and its tributaries, which is used by the city of Fall River as a source of water supply.

Acting under the authority of R. L., c. 75, § 113, the State Board of Health has made certain rules and regulations governing North Watuppa Pond and its tributaries, of which only section 14 is material to the present question.

14. No person shall bathe in, and no person shall, unless permitted by a special regulation or by a written permit of the Watuppa water board of the city of Fall River, fish in, or send, drive or put any animal into North Watuppa Pond, so called, said pond being in the city of Fall River and the town of Westport and used by said city as a source of water supply. No person other than a member of said Watuppa water board, its officers, agents or employees, or public officers whose duties may so require, shall, unless so permitted by regulation or permit of said Board, enter or go, in any boat, skiff, raft or other contrivance, on or upon the water of said pond, nor shall enter or go upon, or drive any animal upon, the ice of said pond.

Your letter also states that the board of health for the city of Fall River has also established rules and regulations relating to North Watuppa Pond, in substance like those above quoted; but inasmuch as it is the clear intendment of R. L., c. 75, §§ 112 to 130, to place the entire regulation of sources of water supply within the sole jurisdiction of the State Board of Health, I do not regard the local regulations referred to as material upon the matter of your inquiry. It is true that local boards may still control and abate nuisances which may be found within their jurisdiction and upon or adjacent to great ponds, whether or not such ponds are used as sources of water supply (see Stone v. Heath, 179 Mass. 388); but there is no statutory authority for the establishment by them of any permanent rules or regulations relating to sources of water supply. Such regulations, therefore, can have no effect upon the duties of the fish and game commission.

The power of the State Board of Health to make rules and regulations is conferred in order "to prevent the pollution and to secure the sanitary protection" of great ponds which are used as sources of water supply. This is a police regulation, and in so far as such rules and regulations are necessary for the preservation of the purity of the water, they will control the provisions of general statutes regulating the rights of the public in great ponds. On the other hand, the fact that a great pond has been taken as a source of water supply does not in and of itself necessarily deprive the public of the right of fishing, or, indeed, of any other right which may be exercised without interfering with the use of the pond as a source of water supply. See Rockport v. Webster, 174 Mass. 385; Opinion of Attorney-General, Dec. 6, 1900, Attorney-General's Report, 1900, p. 111.

It must be assumed, therefore, that the rules and regulations made by the State Board of Health under authority of R. L., c. 75, § 113, were based upon some finding or adjudication by such board that the use of the waters so regulated by the public for boating, fishing or taking ice, is or is likely to become a source of pollution and an injury to the water taken therefrom for the purposes of water supply, in which case the rules and regulations are authorized and are binding upon the public.

It remains to consider the effect of this rule or regulation upon R. L., c. 91, § 19. This statute is mandatory and imposes a duty upon the Commissioners of Fisheries and Game to stock the waters of a great pond whenever a petition of the prescribed character is addressed to them; yet, if the requirement of the section is absolute, it would follow, in the case of North Watuppa Pond, that upon petition they would be required to stock such pond without the authority to use a boat, if a boat were necessary, in distributing the fish, and the petitioners would not be permitted to derive any benefit therefrom unless the permission of the Watuppa water board of the city of Fall River was obtained. Moreover, it is within the bounds of possibility that at any time the State Board of Health may absolutely forbid fishing and boating, and thus render the operation of stocking such pond not only useless to the public, but, conceivably, injurious to the waters of the pond as a source of water supply.

In view of these contradictions it seems to me impossible to hold that any duty under R. L., c. 91, § 19, rests upon your commission to stock a pond used as a source of water supply, and upon the public enjoyment of which rules and regulations of the State Board of Health similar to those under consideration have been imposed. In other words, a great pond which is set apart as a source of water supply is, in a measure, withdrawn from the status of a great pond, and all public rights attaching thereto are subordinated to the single use to which the Legislature has devoted it. It is true that to a limited extent other public rights therein may be still exercised, but the jurisdiction of the fish and game commission is so seriously affected that, in my opinion, the mandatory language of section 19 would not be applicable, and the commission must be permitted to use its discretion in determining whether or not, in consideration of the existing rules and regulations of the State Board of Health, it is advisable or proper to comply with a petition for stocking such a great pond.

Very truly yours,

HERBERT PARKER, Attorney-General.

RULES OF PRACTICE

IN INTERSTATE RENDITION.

Every application to the Governor for a requisition upon the executive authority of any other State or Territory, for the delivery up and return of any offender who has fled from the justice of this Commonwealth, must be made by the district or prosecuting attorney for the county or district in which the offence was committed, and must be in duplicate original papers, or certified copies thereof.

The following must appear by the certificate of the district or prosecuting attorney: —

(a) The full name of the person for whom extradition is asked, together with the name of the agent proposed, to be properly spelled.

(b) That, in his opinion, the ends of public justice require that the alleged criminal be brought to this Commonwealth for trial, at the public expense.

(c) That he believes he has sufficient evidence to secure the conviction of the fugitive.

(d) That the person named as agent is a proper person, and that he has no private interest in the arrest of the fugitive.

(e) If there has been any former application for a requisition for the same person, growing out of the same transaction, it must be so stated, with an explanation of the reasons for a second request, together with the date of such application, as near as may be.

(f) If the fugitive is known to be under either civil or criminal arrest in the State or Territory to which he is alleged to have fled, the fact of such arrest and the nature of the proceedings on which it is based must be stated.

(g) That the application is not made for the purpose of enforcing the collection of a debt, or for any private purpose whatever; and that, if the requisition applied for be granted, the criminal proceedings shall not be used for any of said objects.

(h) The nature of the crime charged, with a reference, when practicable, to the particular statute defining and punishing the same.

(i) If the offence charged is not of recent occurrence, a satisfactory reason must be given for the delay in making the application.

1. In all cases of fraud, false pretences, embezzlement or forgery, when made a crime by the common law, or any penal code or statute, the affidavit of the principal complaining witness or informant, that the application is made in good faith, for the sole purpose of punishing the accused, and that he does not desire or expect to use the prosecution for the purpose of collecting a debt, or for any private purpose, and will not directly or indirectly use the same for any of said purposes, shall be required, or a sufficient reason given for the absence of such affidavit.

2. Proof by affidavit of facts and circumstances satisfying the Executive that the alleged criminal has fled from the justice of the State, and is in the State on whose Executive the demand is requested to be made, must be given. The fact that the alleged criminal was in the State where the alleged crime was committed at the time of the commission thereof, and is found in the State upon which the requisition was made, shall be sufficient evidence, in the absence of other proof, that he is a fugitive from justice.

3. If an indictment has been found, certified copies, in duplicate, must accompany the application.

4. If an indictment has not been found by a grand jury, the facts and circumstances showing the commission of the crime charged, and that the accused perpetrated the same, must be shown by affidavits taken before a magistrate. (A notary public is not a magistrate within the meaning of the statutes.) It must also be shown that a complaint has been made, copies of which must accompany the requisition, such complaint to be accompanied by affidavits to the facts constituting the offence charged by persons having actual knowledge thereof, and that a warrant has been issued, and duplicate certified copies of the same, together with the returns thereto, if any, must be furnished upon an application.

5. The official character of the officer taking the affidavits or depositions, and of the officer who issued the warrant, must be duly certified.

6. Upon the renewal of an application, — for example, on the ground that the fugitive has fled to another State, not having been found in the State on which the first was granted, — new or certified copies of papers, in conformity with the above rules, must be furnished.

7. In the case of any person who has been convicted of any crime, and escapes after conviction, or while serving his sentence, the application may be made by the jailer, sheriff, or other officer having him in custody, and shall be accompanied by certified copies of the indictment or information, record of conviction and sentence upon which the person is held, with the affidavit of such person having him in custody, showing such escape, with the circumstances attending the same.

8. No requisition will be made for the extradition of any fugitive except in compliance with these rules.
